WHISKIES WE LOVE FEBRUARY 2017

There is no messing around with this month's whiskies selection. These five distilleries are some of the most legendary and most beloved scotch whiskies out there. Whether official releases or independent bottlings, you will find liquid gems worth savouring.

WHISKY FLIGHTS

Tastings of 3 x 20ml pours.

FIRST & FOREMOST: GLENFIDDICH $51

The first whisky to truly focus as a single malt whisky is also now the juggernaut of the category. Perhaps for good reason, as this 'Valley of the Deer' makes delicious whiskies.

- Glenfiddich 15 YO Solera 40% ABV
- Glenfiddich 15 YO Distiller's Edition 51% ABV
- Glenfiddich 18 YO 40% ABV

THE TRADITIONALIST: BALVENIE $44

Balvenie takes the traditional craft of whisky making seriously. They grow their own barley, use a traditional malting floor, and their own team of coopers.

- Balvenie 12 YO DoubleWood 40% ABV
- Balvenie 14 YO Caribbean Cask 43% ABV
- Balvenie 17 YO DoubleWood 43% ABV

LINKWOOD DISTILLERY

This idyllic distillery by the banks of the river Lossie has long been prized for blenders, and the vast majority of production goes into Diageo's Johnnie Walker. Increasingly sought after by whisky connoisseurs, official releases are rare and expensive while independent bottlings present excellent value. The house style is soft, fruity with spice, and a long finish.

MORTLACH DISTILLERY

The first legal distillery to be built in Dufftown, Speyside's spiritual heartland. Nicknamed "The Beast of Dufftown", Mortlach has been instrumental in adding a rich and robust character to blends. This old favourite has been recently reborn as a super-premium offering, but good value can be found in independent bottlings such as these two expressions.

THE MACALLAN DISTILLERY

This legendary whisky is what many people deem to be the quintessential Speyside whisky. It is also the most sought-after whisky for collectors, which at times drive the hype and price above reasonable levels. There is no denying the quality, however, and The Macallan remains the benchmark for all whisky lovers to attest to.
