To whom it may concern:

I would highly recommend Frandsen Architects for any architectural needs. The Frandsen Architect team, led by Charles Frandsen, is a group of creative and innovative thinkers that work with the highest degree of professionalism and integrity. Charles, as the lead architect, can take a customer's basic ideas and requirements and turn them into something that is not only functional, but beautiful, as well.

Frandsen Architects has done an outstanding job designing projects for Emory Johns Creek Hospital and our adjoining medical office building, including a Breast Imaging Center, a Cystoscopy Room in the OR, a Patient Access Call Center, a parking lot and a Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory. Working in a hospital environment requires specialized knowledge of state and federal regulations and The Joint Commission requirements. Charles Frandsen's knowledge of these requirements keeps us in compliance and allows us to easily pass all inspections.

The Frandsen Architect team completes their work on time and works diligently to keep a project on schedule. The team is always mindful of the customer's budget and can design on multiple levels, but also recommends cost saving measures that can help an owner get the most design for the money. Frandsen Architects possess the ability to consistently come up with unique, innovative and beautiful designs that will please and amaze the customer. This is what sets them apart from other design firms in our area.

Sincerely,

Laurie Hansen
