LANGSTAFF MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

Z A M B I A

GEOGRAPHY & POPULATION

Zambia is a land-locked country in south-central Africa. Formerly known as Northern Rhodesia, Zambia is named for the Zambezi River which forms part of its border with Namibia and Zimbabwe on the south. Zambia has a tropical climate, though modified by its altitude, and consists mainly of high plateaus with some hills and mountains. In the southwest corner of the country, the Zambezi falls 360 feet (100m) over Victoria Falls (named after Queen Victoria by explorer and missionary David Livingstone). At 1708m (~1 mile) wide, Victoria Falls is the largest curtain of water in the world.

6

- Population: 11.5 million
- Under 15 years: 46.3%
- Growth rate: 2.1%
- Area: 752 614 km² (about ¾ the size of Ontario)
- Languages: English (official), Bemba, Kaonde, Lozi, Lunda, Luvale, Nyanja, Tonga, and about 70 other indigenous languages
- Religions:
 - nominal Christian: 50-75%
 - Muslim and Hindu: 24-49%
 - Indigenous beliefs: 1%

GOVERNMENT & INDUSTRY

Zambia is a republic with nine provinces, gaining independence from the United Kingdom on October 24, 1964. For years, however, power remained with the United National Independence Party (UNIP), the country's only legal political party until 1990. At that time, widespread rioting plus a coup attempt forced a change in legislation, and in 1991 a new constitution allowed for more than one presidential candidate. Zambia's economy has historically been largely reliant on the copper mining industry. But since the 1970s when copper prices fell dramatically, Zambia has slid into poverty, becoming one of the world's poorest nations. As well, the ravaging effects of HIV/AIDS will continue to be a hindrance to the country's economic and social progress for the foreseeable future.

Capital:	Lusaka (pop. 1.3 million)
Head of State:	President Levy Mwanawasa (Jan. '02)
Poverty rate:	68%
Unemployment:	50%
Inflation:	19%
Minimum wage:	$16.50 USD per month
Major exports:	copper (64%), cobalt, electricity, tobacco, flowers, cotton

BACKGROUND OF ASSEMBLY WORK

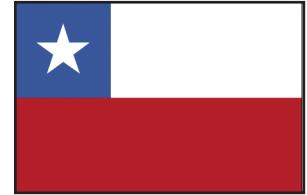

Assembly work in Zambia began well over 100 years ago, through the labours of Frederick Stanley Arnot, who was commended from the UK in 1881. He traveled extensively through many parts of Central and Southern Africa, and made contact with Lewanika, King of Barotseland, where he spent 18 months. Over the subsequent years many followed in his footsteps. The gospel was preached, many were saved, and assemblies were established. Over the years much of the work has been associated with medical, educational, and other humanitarian services. The number of missionaries in Zambia is still high, but their backgrounds, convictions, and practices cover a very broad spectrum. This, along with the large size of the country, and the varying degrees to which different parts have been reached, makes it difficult to give a general picture of assembly work. Much good work continues to be done, but statistics (such as number of assemblies, attendance at conferences, number of baptisms, etc.) can tend to give an exaggerated impression of the true spiritual strength of the assemblies.

PLEASE PRAY:

- 1) for the going forth, and acceptance of, the true gospel. Many in Zambia think they are Christians because of their religious affiliation, but know nothing of salvation.
- 2) for assemblies to base their doctrine and practices solely on the teaching of Scripture.
- 3) for the spiritual preservation of believers, in the midst of the many and varied temptations they face.

CHILE

GEOGRAPHY & POPULATION

Chile is located on the west coast of South America between the Andes Mountains and the Pacific Ocean, reaching for nearly 2900 miles south from Peru to the extreme end of the continent. At its widest point, it is only 265 miles across. For this reason it is described as the string bean country. Chile's climate is obviously widely varied. The world's driest desert, the Atacama, occupies the north of the country – a region which can go for years without a drop of rainfall. The middle of Chile has a pleasant, Mediterranean-type climate supporting many vineyards, while in the windy, cold, and snowy south, glaciers and fjords are to be found.

Population:	16.1 million
Under 15 years:	24.7%
Growth rate:	0.94% (third lowest in Latin America)
Area:	756 950 km ² (about ¼ the size of Ontario)
Language:	Spanish
Religions:	Roman Catholic: 70% Protestant: 25% small Jewish & Muslim populations

GOVERNMENT & INDUSTRY

Chile is a republic with 13 regions, gaining independence from Spain on Sept 11, 1810. Chile's economy is largely dependent on foreign trade. Since the early 1990s, the government's foreign trade policies have made them a role model for economic reform. Although unemployment remains stubbornly high, Chile enjoys a low inflation rate, a strengthened peso, and record-high copper prices at present. In March of this year, Chile elected its first female head of state.

Capital:	Santiago (pop. 6.1 million)
Head of State:	President Michelle Bachelet (Mar '06)
Poverty rate:	18.2%
Unemployment:	8%
Inflation:	3.2%
Minimum wage:	$287 USD per month
Major exports:	copper, other minerals, wide variety of agricultural products, iron and steel, wood and wood products

BACKGROUND OF ASSEMBLY WORK

The work began with the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stenhouse in December, 1927. They had been labouring in Argentina when the Lord guided them across the mountains to begin working in Santiago. They met two Christian businessmen and their wives, the Curries and the Smiths, who were already living in Santiago.

The Stenhouses started meetings in their home and met Frank Rigg and his wife, from California, a couple with no denominational affiliation. Mr. Stenhouse began teaching the group the principles of assembly gathering, and soon the Curries were baptized. Along with the Riggs, the Curries, and Mr. Smith, they began to break bread. Shortly after this, the little assembly moved from the Stenhouse home to a rented hall on a busy thoroughfare, where they had more contact with people. Eventually the Riggs went to Talca where they saw an assembly formed. Donald, their son, continued in Talca.

Mr. and Mrs. William McBride did extensive work in Talca, Constitución, Curicó, and Linares. Brother McBride used his tent extensively in different parts of the country. Some assemblies in existence today started as the result of his pioneer work, after he pitched his tent on an empty lot. Three assemblies in Talca attest to the McBride's faithfulness for over fifty years. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hanna first went to Talca, but the Lord directed their steps to Concepción. Starting in Lota, a mining community, brother Hanna saw an assembly established. Concepción, Coronel, Tomé, Talcahuano, and Chiguayante also have active assemblies which keep the light shining.

David and Evelyn Jones arrived in 1959, first joining the McBrides in Talca, and then moving in 1963 to San Felipe, just north of Santiago. Other workers followed in the 60s and 70s:

LANGSTAFF MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

Anne Reid, Ernest and Kay Moore, Margaret Ronald, David and Ruth Ann Rodgers, Dennis and Gloria Hanna, plus Andrew and Martina Kluge. All are presently active in different parts of the country.

Señor Eliecer Parada was the first Chilean worker. He turned 99 on January 6, 2006. He spent 60 years in the work, having accompanied brother McBride in many of his early evangelistic endeavours. In later years, other Chilean brethren were commended, and today all are active. These are: John and Lutzie Shaw, Luis and Gladys Poblete, Jorge and Marina Avalos, Jaime and Ivonne Martín, Camilo and Jessica Vásquez, Juan and Juanita Seguel, plus Rodolfo and Liliana Vásquez. David Roa is a Chilean who (after living in Brooklyn) returned to labour in his homeland with his wife Elizabeth.

A number of assemblies are the result of gospel work initiated by brethren who had to move to areas where there was no established work. From Arica near the Peruvian border to Punta Arenas, the most southerly city in the world, lamp stands are in existence. Chile enjoys complete freedom for gospel work. This means that tent work, open-air preaching, the use of community centres and neighbourhood plazas, as well as gospel halls, are all without restriction. It should be mentioned that radio has also been a means of getting the gospel out, without restriction, for many years, despite much political upheaval.

Spanish is spoken throughout the country. Early workers such as Mr. Stenhouse and Mr. McBride insisted that workers acquire a good vocabulary, to better present the truth. This feature characterizes those who teach and preach in the assemblies today.

Others who served over the years are Alice Martin and Alice Hill. Alan McLeod-Smith and Charlie McKinnie, along with their wives, also served for a period of time. Celo Brown brought a press into the country, and thousands of tracts, booklets, and gospel papers were provided. Brother Kluge continues the printing today.

PLEASE PRAY:

- 1) for brethren to dedicate time to getting a good working knowledge of Scripture, to be able to preach and teach.
- 2) for godly elders to lead the flock, basing their guidance on the principles of Scripture.
- 3) for an understanding of heartfelt commitment to the Lord, and to the local testimony of believers.

INDIA

GEOGRAPHY & POPULATION

India takes up the major portion of the Indian sub-continent in southern Asia. The Himalayan Mountains cross over in the northeastern part of the country, while the Thar Desert lies in the west on the border with Pakistan. The fertile Indo-Gangetic plain is found in the central, eastern, and rest of the northern parts of India, while the Deccan plateau occupies the southern peninsula. India's climate varies from tropical in the south to temperate in the north. The Himalayas and the Hindu Kush mountains in Pakistan provide a barrier to cold central-Asian winds, thus keeping India warmer than its counterparts at similar latitudes. The Thar Desert, however, attracts the monsoon winds from the southwest, and these produce heavy rains from June to September.

Population:	1.19 billion
Under 15 years:	30.8%
Growth rate:	1.38%
Area:	3 287 590 km ² (roughly 1/3 the size of Canada)
Languages:	22 official languages including Hindi (national language), English, Tamil, and Urdu
Religions:	Hindu: 80.5% Muslim: 13.4% Christian: 2.3% Sikh: 1.9% Other: 1.8%

GOVERNMENT & INDUSTRY

India is a federal republic with 28 states and seven union territories, gaining independence from the United Kingdom on August 15, 1947. There are dozens of national and regional political parties, including a variety of militant, religious-based groups with separatist agendas. Most (60%) of India's 500 million workers work in the agriculture industry. However the service industry, with 23% of the workforce, is by far the most productive sector, accounting for half of India's economic output. India's economy is one of the largest and fastest growing in the world. Yet because of its huge population its per capita income is relatively low, classifying it as a developing nation. In fact, India's many large, overpopulated cities have some of the worst slums in Asia. Prostitution among young girls, the growth of HIV/AIDS (faster than in the worst areas of Africa), the control of armed gangs, and the presence of Communist governments in some Indian states are also significant social problems.

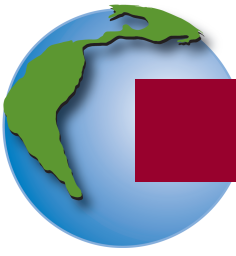

Capital:	New Delhi (pop. 11 million)
Head of State:	President A.P.J. Abdul Kalam (July '02)
Poverty rate:	25%
Unemployment:	9.9%
Inflation:	4.6%
Minimum wage:	varies by state from 25 Rs ($ 0.63 CAD) to 134 Rs ($ 3.37 CAD) per day
Major exports:	textiles, gems and jewelry, engineering goods, chemicals

BACKGROUND OF ASSEMBLY WORK

There is a very strong tradition (which need not be doubted) that the gospel came to south India during the days of the apostles, Thomas and Bartholomew being the apostles involved. Modern assembly missionary endeavour commenced with Anthony Norris Groves in the 1830s. He started assembly planting in the West Godavari Delta area of Andhra Pradesh. Assembly missionaries from the West worked all over India for the next 100 years, until August of 1947 when India gained its independence, and foreign missionary enterprise largely ceased. Since then the work of assembly planting has been extended and established by national brethren with tremendous success, under God, in many parts of India. This is particularly true in two states of India: Kerala in the southwest, and Andhra Pradesh in central-east India, where many hundreds of assemblies have been established. There are well over two thousand assemblies in India today, making it probably the largest assembly work of any country in the world. For the past 25 years our personal association with assembly work in India has been to visit local assemblies, mainly in a teaching and counseling ministry, to establish and confirm them in the truth of Christian doctrines, and New Testament gathering to the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ alone.

PLEASE PRAY:

- 1) for local village evangelists zealously taking the gospel into the remotest towns and villages of central and south India.
- 2) for the safety of believers in a land dominated by a resurgence of militant Hindu extremism encouraged by powerful Hindu political parties.
- 3) for elders and full-time workers to be humble and united, where often there is tension and disunity caused by power struggles and pride of place.

LANGSTAFF MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

EL SALVADOR

GEOGRAPHY & POPULATION

Known as the Land of Volcanoes, this smallest of Central American countries is also the only one without a coastline on the Caribbean. The terrain is mostly mountainous, with a narrow coastal belt and a central plateau. Its name is Spanish for 'The Saviour'. It is the most densely populated nation in the Americas.

14

Population:	6.8 million
Under 15 years:	36.5%
Growth rate:	1.75%
Area:	21 040 km ² (slightly smaller than New Jersey)
Languages:	Spanish (official), Nahua (Amerindian)
Religions:	Roman Catholic: 83% Protestant groups: 15%

GOVERNMENT & INDUSTRY

El Salvador is a democratic republic with 14 departments, gaining independence from Spain on September 15, 1821. A twelve-year civil war from 1980-1992 cost approximately 75,000 lives. Since then the country's economy has grown steadily, and was the strongest in Central America as of 2005.

Capital:	San Salvador (pop. 2.1 million)
Head of State:	President Elias Antonio Saca Gonzalez (June '04)
Poverty rate:	36%
Unemployment:	6.5% (but much under-employment)
Inflation:	4.7%
Minimum wage:	$4.79 USD per day
Major exports:	coffee (22%), paper, apparel, sugar and honey, pharmaceuticals

BACKGROUND OF ASSEMBLY WORK

The work started in 1969, with Jack and Ellen Saword being the first couple from the assemblies commended to this field of labour. Presently there are nineteen assemblies across the country, the last being formed in the village of Los Carretos on April 30, 2006. There are four commended couples: Craig and Corina Saword (1992), Kevin and Patty Flett (1998), Shawn and Heidi St. Clair (2003), plus Alan and Diana Clark (2005). In addition there are four commended single sisters: Hazel Brownlie (1974), who works in a Christian school, Helen Griffin (1991) and Minerva Rincon (1998), who work in a children's home, and Emily McCandless (2000), who is involved in children's works. There are also full-time national workers: Raul Aguirre (1993), Antonio and Edith Ochoa (2001), plus Carlos and Ines Aguilar (2001). Jack and Ellen Saword left the work in February of this year to relocate in Arkansas, to start a new work amongst Spanish-speaking immigrants in that state.

PLEASE PRAY:

- 1) that the Lord's protection would be upon us, as street gangs show their brutal and wicked power throughout the country. Recent incidents include Corina's nephew held at gun-point while his car and belongings were stolen, and a bus driver's wife killed by gunshots from a car that pulled up alongside (the bus is owned by a believer from Rosario).
- 2) that the new assembly in Los Carretos will be a bright, spiritual testimony. The believers need a hall adequate for their needs, and commendable to the gospel. They currently meet in an old chicken coop, on a property they are currently purchasing.
- 3) that younger Christians would not be enticed by the world and its pleasures, but place their lives on the altar for Him, maintaining purity as He has requested, seeking to know and live in His will.
- 4) for the new work in Rosario, that those who have professed faith in Christ will soon take the step of obedience in baptism, and that true shepherds will be raised up to guide the flock in the hope of seeing an assembly established.

LANGSTAFF MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

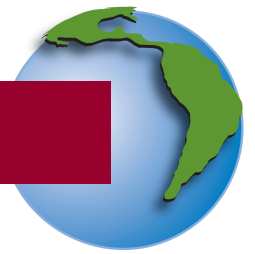

ROMANIA

GEOGRAPHY & POPULATION

Romania is located in southeastern Europe, bordering the Black Sea between Bulgaria and Ukraine. The Transylvanian Basin (the centre of the country) is separated from the Plain of Moldavia on the east by the Carpathian Mountains, and from the Walachian Plain on the south by the Transylvanian Alps. Romanians take pride in being the easternmost Romance people, completely surrounded by non-Latin peoples – ‘a Latin island in a Slavic sea.’

16

- Population: 22.3 million
- Under 15 years: 15.7%
- Growth rate: -0.12%
- Area: 237 500 km² (roughly ¼ the size of British Columbia)
- Languages: Romanian (official), Hungarian, German
- Religions: Eastern Orthodox: 86.8%
Protestant: 7.5%
Roman Catholic: 4.7%
Other: 0.9%

GOVERNMENT & INDUSTRY

Romania is a republic with 41 counties and one municipality. It gained independence from the Ottoman Empire on May 9, 1877. Romania began the transition from Communism in 1989, developing a largely obsolete industrial base. In 2000 the country emerged from a three-year recession, and kept GDP growth above 4% thanks to strong construction, agricultural and consumer activity. However, macroeconomic gains have only recently begun to create a middle-class and address Romania's widespread poverty.

Capital:	Bucharest (pop. 2.1 million)
Head of State:	President Traian Basescu (Dec. '04)
Poverty rate:	25%
Unemployment:	5.5%
Inflation:	8.6%
Minimum wage:	360 (RON) or $145 CAD per month
Major exports:	textiles and footwear, metals, machinery and equipment, minerals and fuels, chemicals, agricultural products

BACKGROUND OF ASSEMBLY WORK

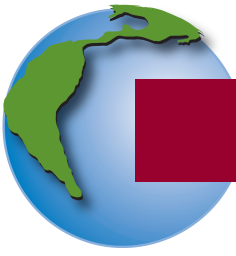

There have been groups of evangelical believers in Romania for about a century, but most of these form the various major denominations that exist today. There are very few assemblies that we know of which are autonomous, gathering simply to the name of the Lord Jesus Christ according to the New Testament pattern.

The assembly in Brasov, where we live, was established at the beginning of 1998. In Ploiesti, the assembly has existed for over 20 years. My fellow labourer, Daniel Enea, is from this assembly; he has been a national worker since 1999. The town of Plopeni, which is near Ploiesti, has an assembly which was established in 1993. These assemblies are our main sphere of service in various aspects. Since 1999, Daniel and I have been visiting regularly the Republic of Moldova, which borders Romania to the east and is one of the former Soviet states. We labour in fellowship with an assembly (established in 1999) consisting of believers from the town of Cahul plus the nearby village of Rosu.

Romania became a real open door for missionary work after the Revolution in December, 1989. This event saw the execution of the dictator, Nicolae Ceausescu, and the overthrow of the Communist regime. There has been a massive influx of Christian influence as a result of this open door, but very little to encourage the establishing or growth of Scriptural assemblies which function outside the recognized denominations.

PLEASE PRAY:

- 1) for the Lord to work in the lives of the young people who attend the Bible Class at Ploiesti every second Saturday.
- 2) for the raising up of godly elders for the strengthening and furtherance of assembly work.

PANEL DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

What kinds of people do missionaries have to deal with?

Are missionaries ever tempted? If so, how?

How does Satan oppose missionary work?

Is there still persecution on the mission field today?

What are some of the joys and triumphs that missionaries experience?

How important is it to understand the culture of the country where one serves as a missionary?

How much time should a missionary dedicate to language study?

Should a missionary work in ways similar to what he has known in the homeland?

How do missionaries handle practical needs for assistance and direction in the lives of people they work with? What are the pitfalls? How does a worker keep from becoming "the answer" to all of life's problems?

Is it helpful for homeland Christians to visit missionaries for a month or two to lend a hand in some project?

Would it be helpful for a well taught brother to visit and give ministry, even if it has to be by interpretation?

Should missionaries in the field interact with overseeing brethren from their commending assembly?

Should elders contact brethren already on the field when someone reveals his or her interest in answering a "call" to that place?

What would a missionary expect to see in a brother and sister who has expressed an interest to serve in a country?

Are there practical standards as well as spiritual standards that would be required for commendation?

Do missionaries ever become discouraged and cast down as Elijah did after his experience with the prophets of Baal?

Is it requisite a missionary be a team player, yet able to handle a new work independently (keeping in tone, of course, with the work in the land of his labours)?

MISSIONARIES LABOURING OUTSIDE CANADA & THE U.S.A.

The following address list has been adapted from those published each year by Truth & Tidings and Harvest Fields magazines. It lists some assembly missionaries who serve the Lord in countries outside Canada and the USA. It does not claim to be a complete or official list of workers. It is provided as an aid to believers who wish to communicate with these missionaries.
