Ruschmeyer's

Billed as a "nautical summer camp," Ruschmeyer's, from the folks behind Surf Lodge, does triple duty as a hotel, bar, and restaurant. Combining forces, Ben Pundole, formerly of Morgans Hotel Group, and creative visionary Rob McKinley (yes, he dreamt up the decadent high of GoldBar), are adding a new stop for the Montauk cool kids starting this weekend with their renovation of a 1952 property—set over 3 acres across the pond from the Surf Lodge. A small number of rooms will serve as crash pads for the slew of offerings on tap, from a beer garden to ping pong, plus a night spot entitled "Electric Eel disco", and, oh yes, a treehouse. Also on tap is a new mess hall for urban campers, The Magic Garden, from the cute guys behind our Orchard Street fave The Fat Radish. If the menu boasts anything as good as their Celery Pot Pie, we're game for any group activities the counselors want to throw at us.
