THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

PRESIDENT: Persis Samuel

Greetings UNEMSA!

This term I have been busy representing you all at various JMP committee meetings, and most notably at AMSA council, which was held in earlier this year in Melbourne. This was a chance to meet with people from all the MedSocs in Australia, and share our ideas, hopefully leading to shape a bright future for both UNEMSA and medical students across the country. Steph and I also spent some time this semester writing a report to the Australian Medical Council summarizing your thoughts about our medical program from surveys that many of you filled out last year – it is exciting to know that your voice is heard!

This has also been a very busy event term for the entire student body! Body Balance started up again, we heard from some inspirational doctors at Futures in Medicine, and older students have been PASSING on their knowledge to the younger ones. Some of our biggest social events also took place this term – Med Week and the Medicine Charity Ball – where the photographic evidence can only suggest that everyone had a fabulous time. All of our SIGs have been super busy as well running events of their own, which I'm sure you all have enjoyed thoroughly. Aside from events, UNEMSA merchandise is currently in the pipelines, as is Med Revue, with cast members and the production team already working very hard to make this years show another success.

All of this, however, has been tinged with sadness as we lost a beloved member of our medicine family, Jess Lindley-Jones. It has been beautiful to see everyone support each other through this difficult time, and I am certain that Jess will never be forgotten.

After such a long, busy, and emotional semester, I hope you all still have some energy left for STUVAC! As always, UNEMSA is here for you, so if there is anything concerning you, I am always happy for a chat.

Best of luck for your exams, and I hope you all enjoy a well deserved break afterwards, see you next term!

UNEMSA Annual Charity Medicine Ball

The 6th Annual Charity Medicine Ball was held on Saturday, May 17th at the Armidale City Bowling Club. The theme was "Once Upon a Time" and the Bowling Club really outdid themselves with the decorations this year. Unfortunately, due to some clashes with dates, we didn't see many local doctors at Med Ball, but we still had over 180 people from all year levels in attendance!

The performances from Joe Evans, and Harrison Ward and Alex Kim were both amazing, and made the night even more magical. It was lovely to see everyone all dressed up and overall, I think everyone had a great time. We raised a total of $2650, which we couldn't have done without all of our amazing sponsors.

I really encourage you to go and shop from these local businesses because it's the least we can do for them. I can't wait to see what next year will bring!

If you have any suggestions for how we can improve Med Ball next year, don't hesitate to send an email to social@unemsa.org!

First Incision

First Incision kicked off the 2014 UNEMSA Social Calendar on Friday, March 21st. For our first years, the evening started in the Somerville Lecture Theatre (P1) with talks from our lovely sponsors: Avant, GP Synergy, MDA National, MIGA, and MIPS. After hearing what each organisation could offer – and loading up with promotional merchandise – the First Years were rounded up into the med commo to sign up for our special interest groups. Unfortunately, the weather was not on our side, and it started to pour, which definitely put a damper on our BBQ!

However, we had about 200 people from all five year levels show up at Booloominbah for the main festivities, where they were greeted with food, drinks, and music. With the help of the GPSN Photobooth, everyone seemed to have a great night overall!

Hopefully, we'll be able to have presale tickets for next year's First Incision, as well as more easily accessible drinks! If you'd like to give me your two-cents, don't hesitate to email me at social@unemsa.org!

MED WEEK

This year's Med Week spanned from Monday, April 7th to Sunday, April 13th, with a whole heap of activities aimed to cater to all 120 UNEMSA students who attended!

Our first party was held on Monday at the Armidale Club with a "Hipsters and Hippies" theme, and it was great to see everyone getting into costume! We had about 92 people come to the first night, which was a pleasant surprise (to say the least) and it was a great first step into a hectic week!

The next event was ABC at EPC on Wednesday night, following Tuesday's rest night. We made over 400 jelly shots (big thanks to the Austin meddies for helping out!), which ran out pretty quickly, but what we lacked in alcohol, we more than made up for in enthusiasm. Everyone looked amazing and it was awesome to see the creative kinds of costumes that you guys came up with! And with our DJ MB from First Year, I think it's safe to say that ABC at EPC was one of the best nights of the week!

On Thursday, we toned it down and had a chill pyjama/onesie board games night at Austin College. Though it didn't have the greatest turn out, everyone who went along had a lot of fun playing our cheapo versions of Twister, Operation, Jenga, and so much more!

Graffiti Pub-crawl was on Friday Night, and we hit up the Royal, White Bull, and the Kilda – all in a straight line so that no-one would get too lost! I was pretty impressed with some of the puns you guys wrote on my shirt, and I'm sure you all had a good laugh when you saw what was on yours!

Our Photo Scavenger Hunt was on Saturday afternoon, with three teams competing for the ultimate prize - half-price Med Ball 2014 tickets. With a valiant effort from all our teams, the Wrights of Glory came out on top with 659 points, nudging out the Mighty Third Years on 594 points, and the Top C Med kids – who sacrificed some much needed points to get back first – on 538 points!

Futures in Medicine

Futures in Medicine night was an event for the whole Armidale family, with two doctors telling us why they chose their fields and how they got to be where they are today!

The night started off with talks from MIPS, AVANT & MIGA, without which this event would not be the great success it was.

The first of our doctors to speak was Dr Hadi Nojoumian, an interventional cardiologist, who recently moved to Armidale. He spoke about his experience around the world as a part of MSF (Doctors without Borders), and how we as future doctors, are in the most amazing profession possible, although at times it might not seem so.

The second doctor to speak was Dr Russell King, a general practitioner, who gained his qualification at the University of London in 1986.

He has a broad range of experience in both general practice and hospital medicine, and has worked in London, Sydney, Brisbane and the Northern Territory. Dr King gave a talk on his experience in Katherine, NT, of which his initial 6 month locum lasted more than a decade.

PASSing Time

Approaching exams, students began to wonder... "where did all my knowledge go?", thankfully quite a few eager senior students stepped up to the challenge of helping their peers pass their exams, pass on knowledge and run a PASS (Peer Assisted Study Session) tutorial.

Thank you to everyone who volunteered.

UNEMSA wishes all our members luck with the coming exams.

Introducing...

VICE PRESIDENT: Steph Gorham
UNE Head of School

Good news people! Our head of school exists! Persis and I met up with him to find out a bit about him!

Firstly he is really friendly and approachable and seems very keen to hear what the students have to say about our program! He has promised to drop into a lecture from each year to say hi and give a royal wave. When he sorts out things upstairs he plans on teaching a few classes for years 1-3 starting with a lacerations lecture to 3rd year in August, so look forward to that.

Dr Dr Doherty (he received a PhD in 2009, that makes him a double Dr. right?) has a lot of experience with the JMP, having worked as the Director of the Tamworth Clinical School for 5 years.

He has worked as an Emergency and Intensive care physician in Tamworth for 23 years AND he still works in both Armidale and Tamworth Emergency departments on weekends and evenings! So the 4th and 5th years will get to have him as a clinical tutor.

He studied medicine at UNSW, but we can't hold that against him, UNE wasn't open yet.

The Doherty's live in Tamworth, there are 4 Doherty children:

- James, 22, studies Med at UQ
- Lizzy, 18, who is soccer mad (planning on joining the Matildas) and studying PE teaching
- Maggie, 15, still at school
- Joe, 12, still at school

EMAIL: vicepresident@unemsa.org

And the good news is he is Football Mad!! (self-diagnosed) He follows the mighty Liverpool.

He has just retired as the captain of the DOCeroos the national soccer team made up completely of doctors who play all around the world. (Coincidentally Scott Jane's dad, Neil, plays for the same team too). He will now play for the over 45 veteran DOCeroos.

As well as all this he coaches a kid's football team and a women's team who are the reigning champions. He even offered a trial match between the med team and his women's team, but Persis and I didn't think your egos could take the dreadful loss that would ensure so we politely declined on your behalf.

Much love,
 Steph

Breathing new life into General Practice

GPSN VICE-CHAIR: Audrey Guo

Email: gpsn@unemsa.org

Why would you want a genie, when you could have a GP?

GPSN has been all sorts of busy this semester, running everything from Trivia Night (our biggest one EVER), to everyone's favourite part of First Incision – the Photobooth!

To kick off the year, Emma and I attended the Futures in GP 2014 Conference, soaking up the fresh-but-politician-tainted air of Canberra and the wise, inspirational words of current GPs, Professor John Murtagh, the Health Minister (Peter Dutton) and numerous other notable speakers. Needless to say, it was an amazing way to let the GP out of the bottle for the year.

Our first event, the sign up stall (before) and Photobooth (at) First Incision was run very ably by the GPSN Team (Emma, myself, Owen, Upuli, Damo, Ishy and Rach) led by the fantastically organised and unbearably cheerful Jess Jose, while rocking our brand new swankilicious GPSN shirts. All in all, these events ran smoother than smooth peanut butter, the new GPSN stamp and excellent sign up rate being the cherry on top of an amazing pie – never oily and never dry.

First year rep elections were held shortly after at the Indigenous Health Night held jointly with NERCHA, where Lauren "Whatdoesthefoxsay" Yip, and Nigel "sorry I have no nickname for you" McGregor were democratically voted in by their peers, selected from a pool of capable first year candidates. The Indigenous Health Night was another one of things known commonly as "successes" – door prizes were won by lucky attendants, questions were answered by our speakers, Sarah Brown and Greg Strong, and food was plentiful!

Shortly after, we welcomed our newest member – the fresh faced Michelle Van, to join our ranks as Sponsorship Officer, a new position she has created shoes disproportionately large for. Her unfailing polite emails have persuaded numerous generous companies – JR Books, Elsevier, MDA National amongst some of them, to generously provide us with books, prizes and other useful things.

With a swathe of excellent prizes under our belt thanks to the Vantastic efforts of Michelle, one of GPSN's biggest events, Trivia Night, was a fun time for everyone. First Prize was won by the Pirates of the Perineum, while best dressed went to the EPC team, "We Love Balls." Special mention to superb charades effort from Drs Michelle Guppy and Nick Martin!

Our first OSCE day, this time for 3rd years, was run jointly with UNEMSA, to the delight of all the overly keen 1st and 2nd years who enjoyed baring it all in the name of medicine. Special thanks to the lovely 4th and 5th years for providing some feedback and coming along!

Our inaugural Red Flag Night, inspired by a similar event run at Griffith University gathered 1st to 3rd year students in good old P1 to discuss Cardiac Red Flags, the discussion led by Dr Rod Martin. The lucky winners of the door prizes were Robbie Milledge, who can now read the ECGs of a village with his soon-to-be-excellent ECG skills (he won the ECG Workbook) and Cameron Smith, who, as the winner of Clinical Examination 7th Ed. might eventually have the clinical skills of a Sith (Probs Darth Maul). With all the positive feedback to the night, we'll see you in July for our second Red Flag Night, covering GIT and Neuro!

We hope you've had as much fun as us rocking up to GPSN events this semester!
(Please keep coming to them...)

NERCHA CO-CHAIRS: Georgie Burrough & Lara Proud EMAIL: unercha@gmail.com

A Purple House, a Purple Truck, and the Boy and the Starfish

Friday evening – After a long hard week, you would expect UNE students to kick back and relax – but instead, UNE's bright young health students could be found learning about The Purple House in a big desert and how one person can make a huge difference.

On April 4th a group of UNE students gave up their Friday evening to attend the 2014 Indigenous Health Night held at the Oorala Aboriginal Centre. As part of the CLOSE THE GAP campaign, New England Rural Club for Health Alliance (NERCHA) in conjunction with the General Practice Students Network (GPSN) brought together passionate medical, nursing and allied health students to provide insight into the inequalities of Indigenous health.

Sarah Brown teleconferenced in from The Purple House, to tell students the story of how up until as recently as 2003, Indigenous people of central Australia had to travel hundreds, and in some cases thousands of kilometres, to receive dialysis treatment. The need for dialysis treatment multiple times a week would almost certainly permanently separate those undergoing treatment from their family and culture, which resulted in many choosing to forego treatment and die prematurely surrounded by their family and friends.

The Western Dialysis Appeal was formed in early 2000 and through the partnership of members in the Aboriginal Art industry raised over AU$1 million to establish The Western Desert Nganampa Walytja Palyantjaku Tjutaku Aboriginal Corporation (WDNWPT) which now provides flexible dialysis treatment throughout central Australia; the 'Return to Country' program has given people the opportunity to return home to visit family, and the establishment of remote renal dialysis clinics has meant that many of those needing dialysis will no longer have to travel far from their family in order to receive treatment.

Greg Strong, the Regional Support Manager for the New England Medicare Local spoke about 'Racism in Healthcare'. He spoke of the research he recently conducted which gathered highly confronting experiences of racism in healthcare that left many students in disbelief, what vital issues need to be addressed, and how best we can CLOSE THE GAP. He finished his talk with the story of The Boy and the Starfish, and how our actions, no matter how small they seem, can make a huge difference to the life of another.

To find out how you can make a difference, find us online at nercha.nrhsn.org.au

UTOPIA Movie Night

On Wednesday 14th May, NERCHA in conjunction with ASPIRE held a screening of John Pilger's UTOPIA. Guest speaker, Jessie Dodkins, started the night off with her John Flynn Placement Program experience. Jessie was fortunate to undertake her placement at Wadeye and Tiwi Islands where she experienced the different ways in which healthcare is provided and how much cultural understanding plays a role in Indigenous health.

John Pilger's UTOPIA documentary is a very powerful and enlightening insight on the First Nation People and the challenges they have faced, especially within the healthcare system. Man of us were left shocked and amazed, questioning whether we have the right to say "Australia is a rich country".

Bunbury Vibe 3on3

Vibe 3on3 is a festival for school age children. The aim of the festival is to “promote healthy lifestyles, strengthen community and boost self-esteem”.

The atmosphere created by the festival organisers was something else. They created a friendly environment so that the kids could feel comfortable and relaxed, even though the day was filled with basketball, hip hop dancing, rapping and painting.

NERCHA’s day started with set up, due to the unfortunate weather we were required to move inside to the squash courts which did feel as though we were closed off from kids. This however did not seem to impact too much as the day was organised in such a way where all the participants were rotated among all of the different displays on offer.

NERCHA and the other Rural Health Clubs performed activities like making ‘Apple Slinkys’, finger plastering, poster painting and much more. All the kids that came to our stall absolutely enjoyed the activities on offer and particularly getting temporary tattoos.

One of the main highlights of the festivals was watching the kids get up at the end for the “Dance Off”. The “Dance Off” was a competition held for the kids to show off their newly mastered dance moves and they were fantastic!

Peel High School RHSV

After many weeks of careful planning and coercing of (eventually) motivated NERCHA members to go and visit years 10 and 11 at Peel High School, we received an email the night before informing us we would have one student. We rapidly debated the merits of a) a REALLY informative session for that one student with a NERCHA member to student ratio of 1:11, or b) cancelling the visit. In the end we decided to keep the visit going, with a skeleton team of experts.

We hit the road to Tamworth at 6.30am for an ETA of 9am, and we did not want to be late – even though some group members required manual handling.

Once we arrived at Peel High School, our dashing good looks and unquestionable enthusiasm and charm for rural health earned us a crowd of approx. 9 students.

Not only was the Festival an amazing experience but having the opportunity to explore the surrounding areas was brilliant. We had the opportunity to taste local produce and wine which was outstanding.

“The festival had a great atmosphere. The kids were at a good age to give new things (like the dance comp) a go. Everyone had a lot of fun and there was lots of encouragement from peers and the enthusiastic coordinators, which made it very positive.” - Jazz Ashurst

“I had such a great time at Vibe 3on3 in Bunbury WA. It was an amazing experience to see school kids engaging in healthy choices and I felt very privileged to be able to give some advice on how to live a healthy life. It was great to see so many people come together to teach the next generation about how to take better care of themselves!” - Chyna Williamson

All in all the few days we spent in Bunbury were ones to remember.

Kerby,
NERCHA Indigenous Festivals

Whilst our initial plans of fun activities such as sherbet making, blood pressure assessing and of course everyone’s favourite, anatomy, had been cancelled, we still managed to persuade the students how exciting the pursuit of a health career can be.

We answered questions regarding a range of health degrees to the best of our ability, but experts in the various fields were sorely missed.

Overall, this experience has served to inspire us regarding bigger and better future Rural High School Visits.

Our next one is planned to be in mid August, we will head down waterfall way to the coast, inspiring children wherever we go. Watch this space if you’re a keen passionate bean – we’re always looking for volunteers.

Maternal Health Weekend

WHO estimates that 385000 women die annually during childbirth, with developing countries accounting for 99% of this statistic. On the 10th and 11th of May, ASPIRE tried to make a dent in these horrifying realities of global maternal health by organizing a Maternal Health Weekend.

On Saturday, we put together 800 birthing kits, to be sent to developing countries where they will facilitate safe and hygienic childbirth. Each kit contains basic equipment that will significantly reduce the risk of infection during childbirth, with things such as soap, twine (for tying up the umbilical cord) and gauze. Thanks to the 50 students who came along, and a fantastic production line, we were able to put together the 800 kits in just over two hours (127 minutes to be exact)! This was followed by a delicious morning tea of baked goodies and a screening of the documentary "The Mountain Midwives of Vietnam", where local women are trying to reduce infant and maternal mortality rates in regions that have rates ten times higher than their national average. ZONTA Armidale, a prominent women's health organization, and UNE SSAF were kind enough to help ASPIRE fund the event, and donations from the day went to both the Barbara May Foundation, also involved in developing sustainable maternal care in developing countries, and helping fund the Birthing Kit Morning Tea in 2015.

The Sunday Maternal Skills Day was also a great success, running stations in neonatal resuscitation, shoulder dystocia and postpartum haemorrhage where students were instructed on how to deal with these situations as well as being given the opportunity to perform maneuvers themselves on the mannequins. We were very lucky to have Dr Abu-Asab (Obs/Gyn in Armidale), Dr O-Jo (GP specializing in Obs/Gyn in Narrabri) and fourth year students David Ferreira, Elizabeth Morrison and Yvette Etherden trained by Dr Cotterell, giving their time up to instruct on the day. Students hopefully, were given a greater appreciation of the difficulties of childbirth, even without the problems of hygiene and limited access to medical assistance that many women in developing countries have to face.

It was overall, a very educational, productive and exciting weekend for everyone involved, we were able to use our own hands to make a contribution to solving global inequalities and look forward to another birthing kit assembly day in 2015.

Movie Night

On 3rd April I hesitantly attended an open invitation movie night hosted by ASPIRE (Armidale Students Promoting International Rights and Equality). The movie, a documentary film entitled Mary Meets Mohammad. Now why hesitantly I hear you ask? Well upon plugging the title into imdb I was kindly asked if I meant, "There's Something About Mary." It's safe to say alarm bells were ringing. However against my better judgement I attended, and let me be the first to say I'm glad I did.

The film turned out to be a documentary following the changing attitudes and perceptions of a local Tasmanian community. A community that had suddenly found itself next to a newly opened asylum seeker detentions centre. The documentary centred on Mary, a local pensioner and devoted Christian who was opposed to both the opening of the centre and acceptance of asylum seekers. It followed her over the course of a year as her attitudes, preconceptions and opinions were challenged through her regular visits to the centre and friendship with Mohammad, a 26-year-old asylum seeker.

Overall the film was a beautiful blend of entertaining, educational and inspiring, and was to everyone's surprise, quite funny. It debunked numerous myths and provided great insight into the issue of asylum seekers and mandatory detention. I found my own beliefs and ideals were challenged by the film and many of the Aspirites who hosted. The night contained all that was needed for a good time. Good food, good conversation and great people. It's now fair to say that I now find myself thinking I should go against my better judgement more often.

UNEMSA FOOTBALL

FC MANAGER: Damion Dinh

Back on form and thirsty for the ball!

It's that time of year again. The mercury plummets, the leaves fall, and everyone gets hyped for the return of the UNE Soccer (Football if you're a stickler) competition.

Coming off back-to-back Premiership wins, UNEMSA FC has returned to the competition in full swing, fired up and in the words of Ishmam, keen to kick some balls.

UNEMSA's B team, mostly Freshers, is shaping up to be worthy successors to the club's legacy. "We're focussing on talent development. Most of these young kids have never played hungover before" remarked Damion Dinh, who is leading the charge as Team Manager. Despite an unfortunate loss, UNEMSA remains optimistic that our grassroots approach to nurturing these young footballers will pay dividends in later years.

But it is the A Team we all want to hear about. UNEMSA's season got off to a roaring start in the opening game against Unity. UNEMSA FC's elite shone in their fresh new white kits, graciously provided by team sponsor MDA National. After last year's uniform debacle, this army finally has a uniform, and you better believe they looked good.

The talent was on show from team veteran, Hugh "Build a Brigde'n get over it" Brigden, who dominated the front line with his superior pace. The heavy lifting in the midfield was handled expertly by Superstar Rob Spier, with Korean import, Yoo Sung Kim, calm as always amidst the storm of Unity's attack.

The undoubtable MVP however, was James "Jimmy Jim Jam Shabadoo" Rodway, who stepped up to fill the big (and probably second-hand) shoes of Star Keeper Lloyd Cresswell, who was suspiciously unavailable for the game.

The game ended in a 3-3 draw, but was a high-stakes, tense affair where the team was able to cut their teeth and sand down some rough edges in team play and formations. "Solid D in the back guys," Rob Spier commented at the game's close, a poor choice of words, but a nice sentiment.

After a week off following the haze that was Med Ball, UNEMSA was back on the pitch last Sunday to square off against the enigmatic BSA. No one knew what exactly BSA stood for, but following a few less-than-real fouls, probably something like "Bull Shit Artists".

The team was once again on form, despite the unfortunate absence of Anatomy superstars Yoo Sung Kim and Rob Spier. The team rallied together, with an unprecedented turn out of players, including reclusive 4th Year Anirudh.

The game was a high scoring affair, with Hugh Brigden bagging a sweet Hat-Trick. Goals were also picked up by Adrian "Does this haircut make me look stupid?" Chung, Bluey Bae and UNEMSA veteran and Rear-of-the-Year Robbie Milledge. Also finding the back of the net was Sam "Small Willy" Williams. Unfortunately, that net was on our side, the result of an unfortunate deflection. "It's technically a clean sheet" returning goalkeeper Lloyd Cresswell later remarked.

In the closing 10 minutes of the game, making his UNEMSA FC debut, Dr Emmanuel Jesuloa, came into the fray and displayed his striking capabilities, which will forever reverberate through hist...ology.

The game ended as a cool 8-1 victory for UNEMSA, a mirror of our 2013 finals victory, save for Phil St Flour's half-way goal (Don't worry, I'll do it next week).

The season is shaping up to be a good one. GAI & FSU

Hanrahan, Be My Man

So tall and handsome, tall and fair,
a lover truly beyond compare

I think of you near every day,
upon my mind you doth hold sway

Life without you is such pain, akin to bursting a varicose vein

Your eyes, as emerald as the grass,
I find as mesmerising as your ass

As winter comes, and the leaves descend, my lust for you truly knows no end.

You have such magnificent, chiselled pecs,
I want to provoke your cremaster reflex

Each time I see you, I get atrial flutter, you melt my loins just like warmed butter

Each night when I do close my eyes,
I dream of you caressing my thighs.

Each time you leave me, I feel so alone,
the pain, it burns, like a kidney stone

Your tongue, so talented, it makes me squirm other men have yet so much to learn

You know that guy Hayden Zhang?
...never mind, lets just bang

What about that Yash Panwar?
...screw him, lets do it in his car

And if I catch you again with Mikey Ryan, it'll leave me broken, desolate and cryin'

You remind me of Mr Harrison Ward,
I want to tickle your spermatic cord

And even with that Ishmam Bari,
I'd jump you faster than a speeding Ferrarri

And forget that Mr Thomas Kropp,
I'd even deign to ride on top

Your slender legs are like noble pegs,
I ache for you, don't make beg

You lay them up like Shaquille O'Neal, so slam me down and seal the deal

Your touch brings tingles down my spine, dayum Matt Hanrahan, you so fine!
