

We Are Hosting:* Chad Mackin

Dogmanship Workshop April 11-12, 2015

Chad (from Pack to Basics) has been doing workshops across the U.S. and Canada. There are a limited number of working spots. Some auditing spots will be available. Sign up now!

This is not about methods; it is about understanding. It represents a culmination of the countless hours of dog to dog interaction witnessed in the unique Pack to Basics setting combined with nearly 20 years of practical experience solving complex dog behavior problems.

Dogmanship is not dog training nor is it behaviorism. It is as well suited for the average dog owner as it is for the seasoned professional. It will reveal a model of behavior and learning that is simple and at the same time far reaching. You will learn to unravel many complex issues in a short period of time.

It will be a combination of lecture, video, and hands on work. Topics include:

- *The roots/causes of aggression and how to relieve them
- *Listening with the leash
- *The truth about the social nature of dogs and how it affects us
- * Utilizing constant communication
- *The secrets of de-stressing an anxious dog
- *Gaining and maintaining trust
- *How dogs teach (how dogs learn)
- *Non-threatening results based handling
- *Creating a cooperative mind (get the mind and the body follows)
- *Creating compliance by avoiding resistance
- * Using the right tool for the right job

Who should come?

Dog trainers will learn new ways to use familiar equipment and new ways to explain to clients what they are doing.

Dog owners will be given a new level of understanding their dog's behavior. Vet Techs, Groomers and Kennel operators will learn how to safely handle all types of difficult dogs while lowering their stress levels, gaining employee morale, and having happier clients. All the above will result in healthier dogs. Daycare operators will learn how to read body language and understand when (and how) to intervene before there's a problem.

More information will be posted on our website as it becomes available: CommunicateAndPlayDogTraining.com
