Disciple-making movements that multiply new churches [12]

Ministry

Dr Steve Addison, February 4-8 2013

Sometimes we get so caught up in the power of Jesus shouting from the cross, "It is finished!" that we forget that Jesus started something. What Jesus started was a movement that began small, with intimate conversations designed to build disciples into apostles who would go out in the world and seed it with God's kingdom vision. That movement grew rapidly and spread wide as people recognized the truth in it and gave their lives to the power of it. Explore with Steve how that movement is still happening today, and the ways we are called to play our part in it. Dr Steve Addison has been a life-long student of movements that renew and expand the Christian faith. Steve distills the characteristics of dynamic movements and makes them available to leaders committed to multiplying disciple-making churches. He began his research into Christian movements in the late 1980s while serving as a church planter in Melbourne, and carried that interest into his DMin with Fuller Seminary. He is the author of two books: Movements that Change the World: Five Keys to Spreading the Gospel and What Jesus Started: Joining the Movement, Changing the World (out in January, 2013). Steve currently serves as Director of MOVE, an Australian based mission agency that multiplies disciples and churches—everywhere. See also <http://www.movements.net/>
