Form I-864 Affidavit of Support: Substitute Sponsors

When Congress first established the Affidavit of Support, one of the requirements was that the original petitioner sign and submit an I-864, even if there was a joint sponsor.

In many cases, however, the original petitioner died prior to the person receiving an immigrant visa or adjusting status, especially in preference cases where there was a long wait for an immigrant visa number to become available.

Form I-864 Affidavit of Support: Substitute Sponsor

For compelling cases, this used to be resolved by “humanitarian reinstatement.” This allowed the INS to reinstate the original petition, so long as it was approved prior to the petitioner’s death.

8 CFR 205.1(a)(3)(i)(C)

This became useless, however, once the I-864 was created, since there was no one to sign the Affidavit of Support, as required by INA 213A.

Congress amended INA 213A in 2002 by passing the “Family Sponsor Immigration Act”

Form I-864 Affidavit of Support: Substitute Sponsor

Two main topics

- Reinstatement of Approved I-130
Petition
- Substitute I-864 Affidavit of Support
Sponsor

Triggering Fact

I-130 petitioner died.

Effects of Petitioner's Death

- Revokes I-130 petition.
- I-864 Affidavit of Support has not been filed, or is invalid because the petitioner has died.

Reinstatement of Revoked Family-Based Petition

- Petitioner dies before approval: No reinstatement. No exception.
- Petitioner dies after approval: DHS Sec may reinstate it for humanitarian reasons, especially if no reinstatement would lead to a harsh result contrary to family unification.

Substitute AOS Sponsor if I-130 Petitioner Dies

- No AOS or AOS signed by dead I-130 petitioner: AOS requirement not satisfied.
Need a substitute sponsor.
- Substitute sponsor—requirements
 - ◆ Reinstated approved I-130 petition
 - ◆ Legal guardian or certain relative
 - ◆ USC/LPR, at least 18 years old, U.S. domicile, 125% of poverty line (100% if U.S. military).

Relatives That May File Substitute AOS

- Spouse, parent, son, daughter,
brother, sister
- Grandparent, grandchild
- Son-in-law, daughter-in-law, sister-in-law, brother-in-law

Effective Date

- Applies to all cases
- Application
 - ◆ Request for I-130 reinstatement: formal written request by sponsored alien.
 - ◆ Substitute AOS: substitute sponsor submits AOS concurrently with reinstatement request.

Final Notes

- “Pooling” of household assets: like a joint sponsor, a substitute sponsor may use the assets, but not income, of qualified household members who have signed a Form I-864A.
- Joint sponsor: may be used if the substitute sponsor does not satisfy the poverty guideline requirement.

Authorities

- I-130 reinstatement: 8 CFR 205.1(a)(i)(C)
- AOS substitution
 - ◆ INA sections 213A(f)(5) and 212(a)(4)(c)(ii)
 - ◆ “Use of Substitute Sponsor if Visa Petitioner Has Died,” 06/15/02 policy memo

Key Points

- I-130 petition approved before death of petitioner, formal request by beneficiary.
- Guardian or certain family member may submit a substitute AOS to replace the one that would have been submitted by the dead petitioner.
- Substitute AOS is submitted concurrently with reinstatement request.

Form I-864
Affidavit of Support

What is the I-864?

- The I-864 in all its various forms is used to establish that the applicant of the I-485 will not become a public charge.
- On July 21, 2006, changes were made to the I-864 to make it easier for applicants and their sponsors to meet the requirements.
- I-864's are needed for all family-based I-485's.

I-864 Forms

- I-864 – Affidavit of Support
- I-864A – Contract between Sponsor and Household Member
- I-864 EZ – Affidavit of Support
- I-864 W – Intending Immigrant's Affidavit of Support Exemption
- I-864 P – Poverty Guidelines

Who needs an I-864?

- All family based I-485 applications require an I-864.
- The principal applicant needs to submit an I-864.
- There must be a separate Form I-864 (and any Form(s) I-864A), with original signature, for each principal visa beneficiary

NBC

- The National Benefits Center has been vetting the I-864 as part of the process of preparing the I-485 for adjudication.
- If the vetting process indicates that the I-864 was sufficient when reviewed, the adjudicator may rely on that determination...
 - Unless it is determined, on the basis of specific reasons, that a request for evidence is appropriate...

In the Simplest Terms...

- The petitioning relative files an I-864 to establish they have the income and/or assets to keep the applicant of the I-485 from becoming a public charge.
- If the petitioning relative does not meet the requirements on their own, they can add the income and assets of any qualifying household members.
- If they still cannot meet the threshold, they can get a joint sponsor who can meet the threshold to sponsor the applicant.
- If through all of this, the threshold set by the poverty Guidelines is not met, the I-485 will be denied on public charge inadmissibility grounds.

Who is the Sponsor?

- The petitioning relative
- An individual – not an entity
- US citizen or Permanent resident (including conditional residents)
- At least 18 years of age
- Domiciled in the U.S., the District of Columbia, or any territory or possession of the U.S.
- Able to demonstrate the means to maintain an income of at least 125% of the Federal Poverty Guidelines (100% for active military members)

Household Members

- The sponsor may use the income of any member of the household who is at least 18 years old to help meet the threshold.
- The sponsor and the household member must complete an I-864A, which must include a copy of the household member's most recent tax return, and sufficient documentation of all income and assets (If using assets to qualify) listed on the I-864A.

Sponsorship Requirements

- Household members
- May combine income with sponsor if:
 - related by birth, marriage or adoption & reside in the same household as the sponsor or were legally claimed as dependents on the sponsor's income tax return.
- Must be 18 years of age
- They do NOT have to be USC or LPR
- Must execute I-864A

Sponsor's Spouse

- A sponsor's spouse that qualifies as a household member and wishes to have his/her income included generally needs to complete an I-864A.
- If the spouse does not wish to be included, the sponsor's income and assets, on their own, need to meet the requirements.

Spouse is intending immigrant...

- If the spouse is the intending immigrant, they cannot agree to support themselves and so should not file an I-864A...

HOWEVER...

- If there are children listed in the affidavit of support and the sponsor intends to rely on the spouse's income to show the ability to support the accompanying family members, then the spouse must complete the I-864A.

Use of the Intending Immigrant's Income

If the sponsor cannot meet the requirements on their own, they can count the intending immigrant's income if:

1. The intending immigrant is the sponsor's spouse or has the same residence as the sponsor and
2. The evidence indicates that the income of the intending immigrant is from a lawful source that will continue after the applicant becomes a permanent resident.
 - Prospective employment does not count.

Use of the Intending Immigrant's Income

- If there is an accompanying spouse or child on the I-864, then the sponsoring intended immigrant needs to submit an I-864A.
- If they are the only ones on the Affidavit of Support, they do not need to complete an I-864A.

Substitute Sponsor

- If the visa petitioner dies prior to the adjudication of the petition, there is no further recourse. (Exception – Surviving Spouses and children of deceased U.S. Citizens and other qualifying relatives – See June 15, 2009 Memo and 204(I) Memo).
- If the visa petitioner dies after filing the visa petition, there is discretion to permit the beneficiary to immigrate, if they have an eligible substitute sponsor (See 204(I) guidelines).
 - Must be the sponsored alien's spouse, parent, mother-in-law, father-in-law, sibling, child (if over 18), son, daughter, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, sister-in-law, brother-in-law, grandparent, grandchild or legal guardian.

Joint Sponsor

- If the petitioner cannot meet the 125% level, they can obtain a joint sponsor.
- A joint sponsor must demonstrate income or assets that independently meet the requirements to support the sponsored immigrant(s).
- Combining the incomes of the sponsor, sponsored immigrant and joint sponsor is not sufficient to meet the threshold.
- Regulations allow, but do not require 2 joint sponsors per family unit, but only one joint sponsor per individual.

Adjudicating the I-864

- First, consider the sponsor's income for the year the form was signed.
 - If the income is at least 125% (or 100% - Active Military) of the Federal Poverty Guidelines from the year in which the form was signed, the I-864 is sufficient.
- If the application was filed in a year different from the year adjudicated, the adjudicator should look at the year of filing to determine the sufficiency of the form. USCIS will generally infer that the sponsor's income has remained and will remain sufficient at the time of adjudication.

What specific reasons?

- There are two situations in which an RFE may be necessary:
 - The most recent tax return, the anticipated household income for the year, and the evidence for the income ALL show an income of less than 125% (or 100% - Active Military) of the Federal Poverty Guidelines of that year, and a joint sponsor has not filed a sufficient I-864; or
 - At least 1 year has elapsed since the I-864 was filed and the facts of the case, supported by evidence in the record, provide a specific reason (other than passage of time) to believe that the sponsor's income is not sufficient.

RFE...

- If you are issuing an RFE for those instances, RFE only for the most recent tax year's information... not information from the tax year in which the I-864 was filed.
- In this case, the sufficiency of the I-864 is based on the Federal Poverty Guidelines in effect when the RFE was sent to the applicant.

Use of Means-Tested Benefits

- If the sponsor or any member of the sponsor's household has used means-tested benefits in the last three years, it does not disqualify the sponsor.
- This question is used to ensure that these benefits are not counted as income in the Affidavit of Support.

Means-Tested Benefits

- Federal Means-Tested benefits include:
 - SSI (supplemental security income)
 - TANF (temporary assistance for needy families)
 - Food stamps
 - Medicaid
 - State Child Health Insurance Programs (SCHIP)
 - State and local means-tested benefits vary by jurisdiction.
- Earned benefits may be included as income. They include:
 - Social Security retirement
 - Unemployment Compensation
 - Workman's Compensation

Documentation

- Each sponsor must submit a transcript or a copy of their most recent U.S. Federal Individual Tax Return, including all Schedules filed with the IRS that is most recent as of the date the Form I-864 was signed (See Memo of 2006).
- If a request for evidence is issued requesting a tax return, the sponsor must submit the most recent tax return as of time of RFE issuance

Job Letters/Proof of Income

- The adjudicator should request additional evidence (i.e., employment letter(s), pay stub(s), or other financial data) if there is a specific reason (Other than the passage of time) to question the veracity of the income stated on Form I-864 or the accompanying documents
- A decision not to RFE for the W-2, 1099, or a IRS transcript will be proper if the officer concludes that the evidence of record, taken as a whole, establishes that the information on the tax return is true and correct

Sufficiency of the Form I-864

- As a general rule, Officers shall determine the sufficiency of a Form I-864 based upon whether evidence in the file establishes that the sponsor has the means to maintain an annual income at the applicable threshold set forth in the Form I-864P, Poverty Guidelines, from the calendar year in which the Form I-864 was filed

Sufficiency of the Form I-864

- If the information on the tax return establishes that the sponsor's current income meets the threshold set forth in the Form I-864P, Poverty Guidelines, then the Form I-864 is deemed sufficient;
 - If the officer determines that the sponsor does not meet the threshold an RFE is required, requesting current year income information (Tax return) and the sufficiency of the Form I-864 is determined based on the threshold set forth in the Form I-864P from current year

Sufficiency of the Form I-864

- The Form I-864 will be deemed sufficient if:
 - Sponsor's total income (Line 22 on the IRS Form 1040, Line 15 on the IRS Form 1040A, or adjusted gross income for those who filed IRS Form 1040EZ (Line 4), meets the Poverty Guidelines Threshold for the sponsor's household size

How to use the Federal Poverty Guidelines

- New Federal Poverty Guidelines are published by HHS every year.
- To assist sponsors, USCIS publishes the governing guidelines on Form I-864P.
- O:Common and your binders contain information for previous years' Poverty Guidelines.

Review of the I-864

- Part 1 – Verify that the sponsor has checked the correct box(es).
 - I-864EZ – boxes a, b, c checked “Yes”.
 - I-864 – box a checked. if box “d” is checked, there should be 2 I-864’s in the file; if “e” is checked, there should be 3 I-864’s in the file.

Review of the I-864

- Part 2-4 of I-864

OR

- Part 2-3 of I-864 EZ

- Verify that these sections have been completed correctly. Compare it with the documentation submitted.

- If the sponsor is using I-864, only “accompanying” family members should be listed in the chart in Part 3.

Review of the I-864

Part 5 of I-864 OR Part 4 of I-864 EZ

- Sponsor's Household Size
 - This is used to determine the correct Federal Poverty Guideline.
- This includes:
 - The Sponsor;
 - The person(s) being sponsored on the I-864 (will always be 1 if using the I-864 EZ);
 - All the sponsor's children, except those at least 18 years old, or are emancipated, or are not claimed as dependents on the sponsor's most recent tax return;
 - Other person's claimed as dependents on the tax return;
 - And the number of siblings, parents and/or adult children who have the same principal residence as the sponsor and have combined their income with the sponsor's income by filing an I-864A.
- Note – Do not count anyone more than once.

Review of the I-864

- Part 6 of I-864 OR Part 5 of I-864 EZ
- Sponsor's Income and Employment
 - Either the sponsor, the substitute sponsor or the joint sponsor must generally demonstrate the ability to maintain an annual household income at least 125% above the Federal Poverty Guideline.
 - An active U.S. military member not in training only needs to demonstrate the means to maintain an annual income of at least 100% of the poverty guideline if filing for a spouse or child.

I-864P

- Based on household sizes of 2 to 8. A dollar amount is provided to add for each additional household member or dependent.
 - For example, to determine the requirement for a household of 10, take the poverty guideline for 8, and add the additional dollar amount multiplied by 2.

2005 Federal Poverty Guidelines

Household size of 10

Amount for household size of 8 $40,487

Add dollar amount ($4,075 X 2) $ 8,150

Sponsor's required income $ 48,637

Determining Ability to Provide Support

● I-864EZ

- The sponsor must only use their salary or pension as shown in the most recent tax return.
- If the sponsor relies on other types of income or assets to qualify, they must use an I-864.
- If the sponsor is using any I-864A's, they must use an I-864.
- Can only be used by the petitioner who filed the I-130.
- Cannot be used by joint sponsor

Determining Ability to Provide Support

- I-864
 - The sponsor may rely on their own income or assets if either or both are sufficient.
 - If they are not, the sponsor may use the income and/or assets of another qualifying household member.
 - If the sponsor is using any I-864A's, they must be signed by the household member and the sponsor.

Combined Household Income

- Generally, if the household income meets the Poverty Guidelines threshold, CIS concludes that the I-864 is sufficient.
- 8 CFR 213a.2(c)(2) permits CIS to conclude that a Form I-864 is not sufficient, even if the household income meets the poverty guidelines.
 - This is only if the evidence of record makes it reasonable to infer that the sponsor will not be able to maintain the household income at the necessary threshold (e.g. Job is seasonal or temporary or change in situation – loss of job, etc.).

Compare Total Household Income with Poverty Guideline

- If the sponsor's household income is greater than or equal to the Poverty Guideline, the sponsor does not need to show evidence of assets and does not require a joint sponsor.
- In this case, move to Part 8 of the I-864 or Part 6 of the I-864EZ.
- If, on the I-864EZ form, the income does not meet or exceed the threshold, an RFE should be sent requesting an I-864 from the sponsor or a sufficient I-864 from a joint sponsor.
- If the income on the I-864 does not meet or exceed the threshold, look at the assets in Part 7 of the form.

I-864 Part 7 - Assets

- The assets must be able to be readily converted to cash within 1 year.
- Evidence of assets – should establish the location, ownership and value of each listed assets, including any liens or liabilities for each.
 - Bank Statements covering the last 12 months, or a statement from a bank, including deposit/withdrawal history for the last 12 months and the current balance;
 - Evidence of ownership and value of stocks, bonds and certificates of deposit, and dates acquired;
 - Evidence of ownership and value of personal property and dates acquired; and
 - Evidence of ownership and value of any real estate and dates acquired.

Sponsor's Assets and Liabilities

$40,487 (125% income requirement for 8)

+ $ 4,075 (additional dollar amount for another person)

$44,562 (125% income requirement for 9)

- $30,000 (sponsor's established income level)

$14,562 (income deficiency)

$ 72,810 (assets of this amount must be established)

Exception to x5 Rule

- If the applicant intends to immigrate as the spouse or child of a U.S. citizen, the assets requirement will be met if the assets equal 3 times, rather than 5 times the difference between the income and the threshold.

Use of the Intending Immigrant's Assets

- If the sponsor does not meet the income requirements on their own, they may include the net value of the intending immigrant's assets.
- If the assets of the intending immigrant are being used, the intending immigrant does not need to file a form I-864A, even if there is an accompanying spouse or child.

Annotations on the I-864

● I-864 –

- Mark whether the sponsor is the petitioner, the joint sponsor, or a substitute sponsor;
- Mark whether the I-864 meets or does not meet the requirements.
- Sign, Date and annotate “CSC” in the appropriate locations.

● I-864EZ –

- Mark whether the I-864 meets or does not meet the requirements.
- Sign, Date and annotate “CSC” in the appropriate locations.

I-864W

- In certain circumstances the intending immigrant is exempt the requirement of the I-864. In this instance, the intending immigrant can file an I-864W Exemption form, along with supporting documentation.
- For the purposes of adjudication of family-based I-485's at the CSC, the only exemption that may qualify is if the intending immigrant has earned or can be credited with 40 quarters of employment under the Social Security Act or qualifies under the Child Citizenship Act of 2000 (See CCA handout).
- The intending immigrant should attach their SSA earnings statements to the I-864W as evidence.

Denial

- If the form I-864 or I-864EZ is insufficient and procedures for requesting additional evidence have been exhausted, the entire I-485 should be denied as the applicant is inadmissible on public charge grounds in addition to any other reasons the application for adjustment may be denied.

Termination of Sponsor's Obligation

- The obligations of the sponsor to the intending immigrant on the I-864, I-864A, and I-864EZ terminate when the sponsored alien:
 - Becomes Naturalized;
 - Is credited with at least 40 credit hours of work with Social Security;
 - Loses or abandons his or her lawful permanent resident status; or
 - Dies.
- Termination of marriage or adoption of a child does not terminate the obligations of the sponsor.

However, the petitioner/sponsor's income listed on the income tax return provided does not meet or exceed 125% (100% if military) of the poverty line. The petitioner/sponsor cannot submit form I-864EZ to satisfy the Affidavit of Support requirement. The petitioner must submit a completed and signed form I-864 Affidavit of Support and all supporting documents. Even if a joint sponsor will be used the petitioner/sponsor must submit form I-864.

M40	The petitioner/sponsor's income on the Federal income tax return does not meet or exceed 125% (100% if military) of the poverty guideline. The petitioner/sponsor lists their current income on Form I-864EZ as an amount to be considered as sufficient, however, no evidence has been submitted as proof of current income. Please submit evidence of the petitioner/sponsor's current income. Such evidence should include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Letter of employment containing the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Dates of employment • Nature of the job • Wages or salary earned • Number of hours per week worked • Prospects for future employment and advancement • Pay stubs or other documentation of pay for the previous 6 months • Evidence of other income, such as Tax-Exempt Interest, Qualified Dividends, IRA
