

Learn to Play the Ukulele and Let Music Heal Your Soul!

The Ukulele is the wonderful little Hawaiian instrument that melts hearts and brings joy to the world. In this FUN workshop you will learn how to play the uke, and then take it home with you to keep playing whenever you want!

The true sound of the tropics, the ukulele was created in Hawaii by Portuguese sugar cane workers in the late 19th century, and soon became the most loved national instrument.

Because of the size and special 'my-dog-has-fleas' tuning it's easy to learn, and with a handful of chords and a simple strumming technique you can play dozens of wonderful songs.

Playing my uke in the tropics of Central America

The perfect traveling companion, I taught myself and many others to play this way throughout my travels in Latin America.

I call it the instrument of peace and happiness, because it brings such Light and Joy to those who hear it, and especially those who learn the joys of playing it!

No musical experience necessary.

Date: Sunday, December 15th, 2013 - 12:30-2:30pm

The Hub Healing Arts Studio (West LA)
2001 South Barrington Avenue (North of Olympic Blvd.)
Los Angeles, CA 90025 - (310) 575-4200

Cost: $98. Includes your own awesome Ukulele (Mahogany Kala 15-S) + Mini Songbook with some of my favorite easy songs!

(Attend with your own ukulele: $40)

Register at: SatyaColombo.com/ukulele

*The Hawaiian instrument of peace
(Mahogany ukulele by Kala)*

Advanced registration/deposit required. Deadline to register: Thursday, December 12th, 2013. This fun workshop was filled up the last time I held it, so be sure to register early if you hear the call!

About the Teacher:

Satya Colombo is a ukulele lover, nomadic writer, world explorer, certified healer, consultant and teacher for transformative leaders and creative rebels. He loves making music, playing in the ocean, exploring the edges, and having a good laugh while doing his part to help build a better world! :)

SatyaColombo.com