

Become Earth Guardians for Future Generations

Are you worried about climate change and environmental degradation in Vermont? Come join CAROLYN RAFFENSPERGER, nationally known lawyer and director of the Iowa-based Science and Environmental Health Network, as she explains how Vermonters can work with local governments to protect future generations from environmental harm. Learn how to set up an environmental audit and draft a legacy plan for your community.

CAROLYN RAFFENSPERGER, nationally known lawyer and director of the Iowa-based Science and Environmental Health Network

MONDAY, APRIL 7

5:30 – 7:00 p.m. Pot luck meet and greet at Quaker Meeting Bassett house, 173 North Prospect St, Burlington.

TUESDAY, APRIL 8

12 p.m. Lunch with legislators at Capitol Plaza Hotel, 100 State Street, Montpelier. Open to all.

5 -7p.m. Public Address, Champlain College, Alumni Hall , 375 Maple St., Burlington. Refreshments Served.

THURSDAY, APRIL 10

11: 45 UVM Gund Institute lunch, Johnson Hall, UVM
7 p.m. Public Address: "Earth Guardians: Approaches to Building Sustainable and Resilient Communities," Green Mountain College, Withey East Room, Poultney.

This event is sponsored by the Burlington Chapter of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, UVM Greenhouse Residency, Environmental Policy Program at Champlain College, Hills-Hollow Fund, Green Mountain College, Channel 17/ Town Meeting Television. Info: Charlotte Dennett, 802-644-5898 Watch Raffensperger's TedTalk at www.youtube.com/watch?v=wHYKBnIKfw&feature=youtube