

Lady Peacock

“I can resist everything except temptation.”

-Oscar Wilde

Who is Lady Peacock?

Lady Peacock has unashamedly strutted into St Kilda.
Barfly doyenne, antiques dealer, philanthropist,
all round good time girl and much more.

St Kilda, described as a "Place of sensuous resort " and a "Pleasure seeker's Mecca" is the perfect location for Lady Peacock.

She is ready to showcase her flamboyant and seductive style in her new cocktail salon.

The Lady likes to lounge on the chaise and sip from her signature
Rose and Lychee Martini.

Lady Peacock's cocktail lounge is a pure embodiment of the Lady herself. A French salon style, intimate, warm, and inviting cocoon for those who are not interested in large, noisy spaces filled with too many people. Lady is discerning and prefers to welcome her guests personally, and enthusiastically.

A place for exuberance and glamour, but don't be fooled by the frou frou, Lady likes a generous swig of intellect and a shot of debauchery served in an elegant setting. This is a progressive place for relaxed morals and open-minded discussion.

Filled with academics, artists, entrepreneurs, bohemian spirits, artisans and courtesans. Affectionately described as 'delicate hedonism' by some, which the Lady likes. You will be right at home in this pleasure seeker's Mecca.

Cocktails

The Lady's signatures

Purse $22

Lady's Ambrosia

Lady's signature cocktail. The ridiculous to the sublime in a cocktail glass. House infused vanilla Vodka, lychee juice, velvet foam, rosewater and petals.

Lady Godiva

Lush vodka chocolate Martini, floating white chocolate covered raspberries. Pure decadence, lots of muttering along the lines of 'I can't have this', followed by "Another please!", rich and naughty.

Crimson Ingenue

The flavour of summer, rum smuggled by pirates, crushed strawberries, basil and pink peppercorn teased around the rim, pure kisses in a glass. Sweet and delicious.

The Courtesan

She's passionate and tart. Vanilla vodka, tangy passionfruit shrub topped with Prosecco. A recipe borrowed from the cocktail god Giacomo, on a rendezvous in Italy.

Panacea

Discovered by a monk, after throwing strange beans in a fire and being tantalised by the aroma. Come to think of it, champagne came from a monk also. One gives thanks to monks, everywhere! Coffee, our life blood. Aroma, alertness, deep breaths to savour the scent. Glorious.

Belle Epoch

A unique cocktail, consisting of gin, chilled Earl Grey tea, lemon juice, a fine layer of froth and topped with lavender. Discovered in Hong Kong, and never forgotten. For those who like to explore new tastes and smells. Elegance on the lips.

The Anna Effect ($26)

Bespoke champagne cocktail, with a nod to Ernest Hemingway. Champagne with a trickle of Berthe De Joux absinthe, to knock your socks off, as she always does. Divine.

Cocktails

The classics

Purse $20

Gin Martini

Definitely stirred, not shaken. Quality gin and vermouth. Elegant, strong, with big fat olives. Ask for Martini Pellone, which is mostly just fine gin, olives, and prospects...

Mojito

The Cuban classic, rum, lime juice, soda, brown cane sugar, fresh mint and ice, stirred to a hip swaying, sweaty samba rhythm, which clearly enhances the flavour.

Margarita

The Spanish word for “daisy”. Tequila, citrus, salt and sunshine.

Manhattan

A classic since its inception in 1880. Bitters and sweet vermouth partnered with Rye whisky.

Negroni

For those who like it a little bitter. A third a third a third (Campari, sweet vermouth, and gin).

Old Fashioned

Like us! The vanguard of the classic cocktail revival. A sugar cube wetted with dashes of Angostura bitters, and a little soda with Rye whisky.

Sir likes to Tinkle

Whisky

When not drinking cocktails, the Amber Nectar is Sir Peacock's preferred drink. He has carefully put together a list of his favourites and he is just as excited as you to try new ones from time to time.

Monkey Shoulder Speyside $12

Elegant blend, caramel, grass and earth.

Balvenie Double Wood 12 Single Malt Scotch $16

Honey, oranges and vanilla, chocolate finish. A little charred oak and sherry. Sir P's favourite.

The Macallan Triple Cask 12 Single Malt Scotch $20

Complex, fresh flavours, vibrant citrus and light oak with velvety cocoa.

Laguvulin 16 Islay Single Malt Scotch $18

Heavy peat-smoke, pronounced maritime character. Caramelised malt and baked apples.

Yamazaki 12 Single Malt Japanese $30

Fruity and spicy nature. Faint hint of peat-influence. Soft and smooth, very easy to drink.

Chivas Regal Royal Salute 21 Scotch $35

Premium blend. Sophisticated. Powerful aromas of sweet pears and citrus fruits, balanced with the fragrance of summer flowers.

Balvanie Port Wood 21 Single Malt Scotch $35

“Praise the Gods, this is absolutely divine!” is probably the most accurate expression. Nose is white peach with a puff of smoke.

The Lady likes to Savour Gin

Originally a medicinal tonic, modern gin has maintained its roots in the superb juniper flavour profile and is a marvel in both cocktails and a simple G&T.

Tanqueray $12

British distilled since 1830. Subtle yet fresh aromas of grapefruit on the nose which leads to a great blend of juniper, vanilla and lime on the palate.

The Botanist $16

Hailing from the Scottish Isle of Islay, this gin includes a huge 31 botanicals in total, 22 of which are locally foraged on the island

The Citadelle $16

a fabulous French gin made with 19 different botanicals including Moroccan Coriander, French Juniper, Mexican Orange Peel and Chinese Licorice...

Giselle Pavlova $16

Ballerina Anna Pavlova famously danced the ballet of Giselle. This delicate Melbourne gin captures the spirit of pavlova with hints of cream, vanilla, toffee and a caramelised crust on an Albanian juniper base.

The Lady likes to Imbibe

Vodka

From humble beginnings vodka was refined by a Russian Czar concerned about the effect that rough unfettered vodka was having on his subjects. Today we enjoy triple (and more) distilled vodka that is smooth and luscious.

White Light $12

Multi award winning Victorian Vodka. Light citrus notes and a touch of sweet vanilla. Silky and creamy with a long soft finish.

Grey Goose $ 16

French Vodka is distilled using pure water and filtered through champagne limestone. Bouquet traces of citrus, almonds and floral flashes. The lovely palate is always round and gentle.

Crystal Head Aurora $18

The unique bottle of this ultra-premium Canadian vodka was inspired by the dazzling light show of the aurora borealis. Distilled 12 times with the untouched waters of Newfoundland through layers of semi-precious crystals known as Herkimer diamonds. On the nose - crisp with delicate floral aromas and a subtle hint of anise. Warm with strong peppercorn notes and a touch of sweetness. Dry, clean, and warming sensation on the finish.

The Lady likes to Quaff
