Profile

Susan Horvath, DPT, OCS has been practicing outpatient orthopedic physical therapy for over ten years with Illinois Bone and Joint Institute. She treats a variety of orthopedic injuries and has extensive experience with knee and shoulder problems. Susan has taken multiple manual therapy courses with the University of St. Augustine, which she integrates with therapeutic exercise for optimal recovery of her patients.

She is board certified as an Orthopedic Clinical Specialist, a member of the American Physical Therapy Association, and a clinical instructor for physical therapy students. Outside of the clinic she enjoys basketball, running, cheering on Michigan sports teams and traveling.

Education

- B.S. in Movement Science-Kinesiology; University of Michigan, 2003
