Profile

Kyle was born and raised in the Northwest suburbs of Chicago. He has been working with Illinois Bone and Joint since 2013 starting as a rehab technician at the Arlington Heights Clinic. After completing his PTA degree through Oakton Community College he is now ready to transition to his new role as a PTA. He is excited to continue his career with IBJI where he can utilize joint mobilizations, soft tissue massage, and functional exercise learned over the course of his schooling. As a technician, one of his favorite aspects was seeing how much progress patients would make during their rehab process. He cannot wait to become a bigger part in their plan of care and help patients recover and reach their full potential.

With his off time Kyle enjoys watching and playing multiple sports, exercising and spending time with family and friends.
