The Spokane Symphony, currently in its 58th season, is the largest and most active professional performing arts organization serving the Pacific Inland Northwest. The Symphony offers a ten concert Classics series and six concert Pops series, plus three pairs of chamber orchestra concerts and three pairs of chamber music programs, in addition to numerous educational and outreach services. Fabio Mechetti is in his last year as Music Director, and a search is underway for his successor. The SSO has recently acquired the FOX theatre, a 1931 building in Art Deco style. Following renovations, the FOX will become its new home for future seasons. Located 18 miles from the Idaho border, Spokane (area pop. 428,600) is a city which enjoys a four-season climate in close proximity to mountains, rivers and lakes that offer a variety of activities to those who embrace the great outdoors.

Supplemental income is available to musicians through teaching, either privately or at the several area colleges.
