

OPENGOV HUB STRATEGY

To help further tap our network's potential in order to create unprecedented new impact together

Why We Exist: Mission of the Hub

Resource Sharing

Provide a workspace and essential resources to help opengov organizations—who promote transparency, accountability, and civic participation—get their work done efficiently

Collaborative Learning

Be an active community of collaboration, learning, and innovation for greater organizational effectiveness and collective impact

What We Do: Three Objectives

Building Community

Help individuals and organizations get to know each other and cultivate trust and relationships

Fostering Collaboration

Facilitate a variety of formal and informal ways for our members to work together and support each other

Catalyzing Change

Create safe spaces to smartly experiment, innovate, learn, and improve together

What We Focus On: Four Strategic Themes

Maximizing the Impact of Open Data

Ensuring information about the public good is useful to governments and citizens alike

Adaptive Learning

Creating context specific, iterative, and feedback informed approaches to better tackle complex governance challenges

Opening Governance in Difficult Places

Promoting transparency, accountability, and participation in conflict-prone and closed, restrictive environments

Localizing Open Governance Reforms

Opening governance at subnational city, state, and municipality levels and bridging the divide between local and global efforts
