Health Care for All-Oregon Changes Name to "TrumpCare Oregon"!

April 1, 2016 - After a solid string of victories in the Republican Primaries and Caucuses across the country, Presidential candidate Donald Trump abruptly ended his campaign yesterday, announcing "I can't believe these morons actually voted for me! I entered this race as a lark, and did everything I could to insult and alienate as many people as I possibly could, but apparently that only strengthened my support among the core of the Republican Party."

Trump then announced his next big investment plan, national single payer health care. "People talk a lot about ObamaCare, and now they're debating over BernieCare, MediCare for All and HillaryCare. I want a piece of that." Trump announced that he is investing one billion dollars each into the single payer movements in three states. "The best way to make this thing go big, is to make it succeed in individual states. So I picked the three states that have a chance, and where I could have the most impact with my money." Trump is giving $1 billion each to the Health Care for All organizations in Vermont, Colorado and Oregon with just one requirement. They must rename their organizations to "TrumpCare," in order to further the Trump brand.

The Board of Health Care for All - Oregon, following a long and sometimes heated debate, moved forward on a consensus to accept Trump's billion-dollar contribution and rename the organization. Even though none of the Board members spoke in favor of the move, following the rules for consensus all the Board members decided to step aside and not block consensus. Board member Joanne Cvar said, "As much as I despise Trump, and everything he stands for, we could really do a lot with a billion dollars."

Board Chair, Lee Mercer, outlined the next steps: "Oregon has 2.2 million voters, so that works out to a little over $450 per voter available for our campaign. We will be hiring 22,000 canvassers to go out and spend a week with each family in Oregon over the next year. Hopefully that will gain us enough support to pass our TrumpCare plan."

A spokesperson for UnitedHealth Group, who asked to remain anonymous, stated "Given Trumps record of business successes and failures; we're not worried about TrumpCare. We expect it will go the way of Trump Steaks and many other Trump products that disappeared as utter failures."

Trump supporter Gill M. Maul put down his "Keep Guvmn't Out of My Medicare" sign to say, "Trump has it right! We don't need socialist anything. TrumpCare will fix it." When it was pointed out that TrumpCare is in fact the same thing proposed by Bernie Sanders, Maul responded "No … BernieCare would be a socialist government take over of health care. TrumpCare brings everyone together under one plan, like what works so well in Canada. Plus, Trump says we'll make Canada pay for it!"
