Old Burying Ground Inscriptions
May/June 1886
Charles Webster Bryant

This second transcribed edition of Charles Webster Bryant's Old (Colony) Burying Ground inscriptions on burial markers follows the form used by the careful transcribers who first committed CWB's five (5) notebooks to typed copy around 1950. We do not know who they were, but like them, we have tried to preserve the exact rendition of Bryant's record. The term "Old Colony Burying Ground" dates from around 1900 when the Daughters of the American Revolution Chapter began a number of clean-up efforts on the grounds, and erected the South gateway.

The reader will note:

- 1) original text, spelling, misspelling, punctuation.
- 2) text placement to reflect arrangement on the stone.
- 3) hyphenation, line, and word breaks as they appear.
- 4) dropped letters, e.g., the for thee, occasionally.
- 5) the stone carver's name/initials at lower right when on the stone.

Post-1886 information is shown in italics, excepting "date of birth [DOB:]."
Stones found/erected after 1886 are listed in place numerically and carry alphabetic "a,b,c,d" extensions. "Date Of Birth" [DOB:] has been added where possible in the right margin of the record. In the ongoing restoration of the Burying Ground stones (1992 to the present), DOB often immediately brings one's attention to coincident events resulting from epidemics, events of nature, accidents, dual births, etc. One of the striking aspects of the record is its attestation to infant/child mortality in the XIX century.

We cannot adequately express our appreciation for Charles Webster Bryant's work in the spring/summer of 1886 to complete this record. When he wonders "Will the coming man thank me (or otherwise) for the labor I have here bestowed?" his heirs – all of us – recognize the magnitude of his accomplishment. Bryant died in September 1886 at age 37, of typhoid, not being the beneficiary of the safe water system for Granville he helped put in place. Mourned by all, he nonetheless left a model of public service this village cannot forget.

W^m S. Martin
Died
Aug. 16, 1842
Æ 30 y'rs.

The deceased was a native of Braintree Vt. - a graduate of Middlebury College-for 10 y'rs.
a member of the Pres. Church-& for the last 5 Preceptor of the Granville Male Academy. He has left a wife and two infant children to mourn his loss.

"The righteous hath hope in his death"

-- x --

This monument was erected by the Pupils of Mr. Martin: as a token of respect & esteem for their much beloved & lamented Teacher.
And all united in saying that as a teacher, he was untiring in his endeavours to elevate & enlighten, the minds of his pupils, stimulating them to emulation by his praiseworthy examples, pursuing his course with unremitting vigor; surmounting every obstacle, by a decided & persevering course. As a Christian he was consistent - as a citizen he was beloved & respected by all who knew him.

(W^m Schuyler Martin graduated Middlebury 1836) me but weep for yourselves, and for your children."

In Memory of the Rev.
James Berry, who departed this life July 28, 1834, in the 36 year of his Age.

[DOB: ?? 1798]

After an illness of eighteen days, he closed a life of much usefulness and devotedness to God and was much lamented by all who were acquainted with his daily piety, and untiring zeal for the good of immortal souls.

"I would not live always no happy release
To leave this vain world for the realms of peace
I rejoice dearest Lord in thy beauties to shine,
No more as an exile in sorrow to pine.
This flesh I resign, my labours I close,
And change my hard toiling for blissful repose
Although I go hence may no rising sigh, Distrust the kind hand that removes me on high,
"Oh who would live always away from his God!
Away from yon heaven that blissful abode;"
I ask not to stay, no welcome the tomb,
My reward is with Jesus in heaven my home.

Elizabeth P. Hayes
Died
Oct. 23, 1840
Aged 41 Years.

[DOB: ?? 1799]

The deceased was daughter of Dr. Rufus Harvey of Granville, Mass. & Consort of the late Rev. P. O. Hayes formerly of this place. In early youth she dedicated herself in God & the church & during a life marked with trial & sorrows, she was meek patient & devout. Her life and her sorrows are ended. The resigned sufferer, the friend of the afflicted & poor, the tender & oft bereaved Mother is at rest. Sleep on sweet Mother: thou art at last relieved from the buffetings of this unkind world & we would not summon thy happy spirit back.
We leave thee to thy soft repose, till thy precious dust shall rise & we meet again forever.

(The stone bearing the above inscription stands nearly East of #8.)

of her age

Her call was sudden, but it found her ready. Her work was done, and she was perfectly resigned to her Heavenly Father's will:
nor did she fear to enter the dark valley: for her faith and hope extended beyond the grave; even to that glorious rest which God hath prepared for those who love him.

"Be ye also ready for in such an hour as ye think not, the son of man cometh.

And what new spoil hath the reaper death?
T'is a man that hath yielded to him his breath:
In the vigor of life, in manhood's prime.
He was suddenly called from the scenes of time.
In that mourning train one foremost stands.
With him lately joined in wedlock's bands
If with her you mourn, Oh children of earth!
Turn to wisdom's ways and forsake your mirth.

An other lovely bud torn from the parent stem and early called from earth to bloom in the Paradise of God. And why should we still grieve at thy early transit: Thou hast hapily escaped the storms and tempests of life, and safely gained the haven of everlasting rest.

When the Archangels trump shall blow,
And souls to bodies join below,
What crowds shall wish their lives
Had been as short as thine.

(Sle)ep on sweet babe, forget they tranicient woes,
In the soft slumbers of the quiet tomb:
I would not wake thee from thy — repose,
Nor call they spirit from its — home.
Sad was the hour that summoned thee away
Deep was the grief that rung a parents heart
But he who gave, forbade thy longer stay, Too pure, too bright, to beautiful for earth.

from the society of those who loved thee so well on Earth?

And shall we no more behold thy lovely form? no more enjoy the smiles of thy pleasant countenance or listen to the manly sentiments of thy growing mind? Thou art indeed gone. Thy place will be ever vacant, and the fond earthly hopes of thy parents and friends are forever blasted. Death,

the relentless Tyrant, has again left us to sorrow and to mourn. But why are we so reluctant in resigning thee to thy Maker?

Thou hast left a World abounding with trouble and sorrow, (of which thy young heart was but too susceptible,) and hast gone, we trust in answer to thy fervent petition, to live with thy Saviour in Heaven where, if we love and serve God on Earth we shall ere long join thy happy Spirit in the work of praise and adoration never more to be separated through out the countless ages of Eternity.

Hughes.

Blessed is the man that maketh the Lord his trust, and respecteth not the proud nor such as turn aside to lies.
Learn thou from this how weak and vain
Is every earthly gift;
How in one instant all may fade,
and leave thee thus bereft,
When thy fond heart is filled with joy,
With gay and mirthful feeling,
Bethink thee, that the form of death
Beside thee may be stealing.

Now done with all below the sun
She shines before the brightest throne
Her race was swift her rest is sweet
Her views divine her bliss complete,
Her songs sublime her transports swell
Her state Eternal, God her all,
This, this alone her husband cheers
And Joy wipes off the falling tear.

Our love survives stronger than hope or grief,
It has survived, remains, and will remain:
Time to our poignant anguish brings relief;
And now thy Memory is sweet again.
And is not this a pledge of life eterne?
Nature still clinging to her last desire?
Towards our friend tho' dead, our feelings yearn,
To meet him and not part our hearts aspire.

Who are these arrayed in white -,
Brighter than the noon day sun
Foremost of the sons of light;
Nearest the eternal throne?
These are they that love the cross
Nobly for their master stood;
Suffers in his righteous cause;
Followers of the dying God.
Out of great distress they came;
Washed their robes by faith below
In the blood of yonder lamb
Blood that washes white as snow;
Therefore are they next the throne,
Serve their Maker day and night
God resides among his own,
God doth in his saints delight.

And ere we scarcely knew its force,- ‘twas past;
And all was mute distress and anguish sore”
Too soon the frost of death has nipt the flower.
That brightly blooming promis’d fairest fruit:
And, O she’s gone!!! Yet, sweetly whispers hope,
Her heart was open’d
by a Saviors love;
She knew his voice and had commenced the walk
Of heaven directed piety and truth;
Be this our solace while we kiss the sod.

(The above on a freestone slab marking the most southernly grave in the most easternly tier of graves of the old burying ground in Granville, O.

Such being the case the work that I set out to do is finished i.e. to copy verbatim the inscriptions in said old ground.

Very possibly some have been omitted by reason of being hid by brush weeds or grass: but all that have been seen have been faithfully copied.

Will the coming man thank me [or otherwise] for the labor I have here bestowed?
