Train conductor dies in incident in Kenmare

KENMARE, N.D. (AP) — Authorities are investigating the workplace death of a train conductor in the northwest North Dakota city of Kenmare.

KENMARE, N.D. (AP) — Authorities are investigating the workplace death of a train conductor in the northwest North Dakota city of Kenmare.

The Ward County Sheriff's Office says 38-year-old Robert Glasgow of Surrey died shortly before 2:30 a.m. Monday. Authorities say Canadian Pacific Railway employees were moving railcars when Glasgow apparently was crushed between two cars.
