Through the fifty years of experience of its founder, Norman Macleod, Pembroke Magazine stands in the mainstream of the little magazine—a tradition that includes other such Macleod publications as Front (1930-31), the Maryland Quarterly (1942-44), and the Briarcliff Quarterly (1944-47). The magazine spans cultures in its regular publication of international writers. And Pembroke Magazine gathers the best by artists from North Carolina, the United States, and beyond.
