Compiled and edited by Gregory C. Pappas
With a foreword by +Bishop Demetrios of Mokissos

A new photography book has been published called “Extra! Extra! Chicago’s Greeks in News Photographs 1930-1990” which contains over 150 vintage photographs of a lively, engaged Greek community. The photographs, all previously published in mainstream Chicago newspapers, come from the collection of Gregory C. Pappas, who also edited and compiled the images for publication.

The book was published, thanks to a generous grant by Chicago businessman and Archon of the Ecumenical Patriarchate, Mr. Harold Anagnos.

The book tracks the history of one of the largest diaspora communities of Greeks in the world as told by the mainstream media. Photographs include 1970s demonstrations against the Turkish invasion of Cyprus and military dictatorship in Greece, numerous parades that once took place in downtown streets, and long-forgotten celebrations and visits by dignitaries to the Windy City when thousands of Greeks came out to welcome them.

Bishop Demetrios of Mokissos, Chancellor of the Greek Orthodox Metropolis of Chicago wrote the foreword and all proceeds of the sale of the book will benefit the St. Iakovos Camp and Retreat Center.

The book is available for retail sale at store.pappaspost.com or wholesale via the Metropolis for orders of 25 or more for bookstores and festivals.
