John F. Kennedy, His 100th year - The Man and the Myth with Mel Borowka, Attorney and Historian

Thursday, July 27 at 2:00 p.m.

JFK was an iconic figure for many Americans; young, dashing, charismatic and idealistic, he promised a brighter future for America - a new frontier. His presidency was the noble and romantic Camelot, with the Kennedys as the royal family. His promise, as we all know, went unfulfilled. Those however, who lived during the Kennedy years rate him as an outstanding President, most historians do not. Let us examine that time, the Bay of Pigs, the Cuba missile crisis, Vietnam, the Peace corps and find out where you would rate him.

Richard M. Nixon - The Man and the Myth with Mel Borowka, Attorney and Historian

Thursday, August 24 at 2:00 p.m.

Back from political death, having lost the Presidency by a razor thin margin to John F. Kennedy and then the race for governor of California, he rose from the ashes to win the Presidency twice. Whatever political victory he ever had is overshadowed by Watergate, dirty tricks, resignation and the war in Vietnam. He became associated with everything that is bad in American politics. But looking back at his time in office you see opening the door to China, creating the EPA, ending the draft, womens right in college sports, support for Israel. Where will history and where will you rate this flawed President?
