

spoon'-feed`

v.t. -fed, -feed•ing.

1. to feed with a spoon.
2. to provide so fully with information or the like that one is prevented from thinking or acting independently.
3. to provide someone with (information or the like) in this way.
4. to pamper.

Random House Kernerman Webster's College Dictionary, © 2010 K Dictionaries Ltd. Copyright 2005, 1997, 1991 by Random House, Inc. All rights reserved.

- Recipient is largely passive
- Controlled, mostly clean delivery system
- Food delivered at rate chosen by feeder
- Recipient may show signs of having had enough
- May result in short-term regurgitation
- Seems to enjoy it

<http://www.drdaivesbest.com/newarticles/spoon-feeding-you-your-fat-loss/>

- Recipient is largely active
- Likely to get messy
- Has to learn how to get what it needs
- Can have as much as it likes
- Decides when it has had enough
- Less likely to result in regurgitation
- Seems to enjoy it

<http://www.baby-log.com/my-baby-day-by-day/what-it-takes-to-teach-a-toddler-feed-himself-part-1/>

	Spoon-feeding	Middle ground?	Feeding themselves
to provide so fully with information or the like that one is prevented from thinking or acting independently.	Look at this Powerpoint ..copy the list of 20 adjectives that describe food tastes. Then learn them for a test next lesson.		Decide, find and categorise a comprehensive range of adjectives to describe food tastes. Discuss/decide how you will show you have mastered them.