

Elite Team

Performance Program

Adam  Donnell.

For teams that dare to go further

Facilitated by a former Special Forces operator with real-world experience of building and leading high performing teams both in combat zones and in the corporate world.

A unique blend of the latest academic thinking on high performance teamwork combined with ultra-realistic tactical scenarios in a state-of-the-art Urban Combat Facility will take your team's performance further, faster - and our guarantee is that you'll have fun doing it too.

Designed with performance in mind

Whether you want to prepare a new team for an epic quest into uncharted territory, resolve conflict or empower individuals to think for themselves and act for the team, this program is for you.

This one-day program will celebrate what's working well for the team and identify what needs to change for them to work more effectively as a team. Through an immersive series of workshops, facilitated discussions and high-octane scenarios your team will:

- Build cohesion and teamwork
- Learn to resolve conflicts constructively
- Establish a culture of individual accountability
