

Imagine having over one hundred children. It might sound inconceivable, but teachers all over the world manage this role regularly. Although there are unquestionable differences between a teacher and a parent, there are three noteworthy ways in which the two are indistinguishable. By caring for students academically, physically, and emotionally, teachers relate to their pupils as parents relate to their children.

Period 4

85%
of teachers hug students