Through an innovative continuum of programs, we meet the full range of housing needs facing New Yorkers who are homeless or at-risk—from adults experiencing mental health and substance use crises to working families who cannot afford market rate apartments. Housing provides the stability our clients need in order to receive our health care and employment services most effectively, and move toward independent living. Our 23 housing programs have the capacity to serve more than 2,100 individuals a day.

AN INNOVATIVE CONTINUUM OF HOUSING AND SERVICES

Our crisis services offer overnight stays and intensive support for individuals experiencing mental health and substance use crises.

CRISIS SERVICES
- Programs: 2
- Capacity: 60

We operate three mental health shelters, two substance use disorder shelters, a senior men’s shelter, and an LGBTQ young adult shelter.

SPECIALIZED SHELTERS
- Programs: 7
- Capacity: 942

Transitional housing gives adults leaving the shelter system a home with services to prepare them for permanent housing. Four of our programs serve adults with mental illness, including one for parolees. We also have a program for adults with substance use disorders.

TRANSITIONAL HOUSING
- Programs: 5
- Capacity: 305

Our supportive housing programs combine permanent apartments with on-site health and social services to help residents remain stably housed. Despite the challenges they face, 87% of our supportive housing residents are still living independently after one year.

PERMANENT SUPPORTIVE HOUSING
- Programs: 7
- Capacity: 733

At our permanent housing buildings—Geffner House and St. Nicholas House—we provide additional apartments to low-income community residents who live independently.
