| travelin' | in the north country | fair | | Where the winds hit | |
| heavy | on the border - | line | | Remember | |
| me | to one who lives | there | | Oh she once | |
| was | a true love of | mine | | (And when you...) | |

| go, | and the snow flakes | fall | | The rivers | |
| freeze, | and summer | ends | | Please | |
| see for me, | that she's wearing a coat so | warm | | Keep her | |
| from... | that howling | wind. | | Please see for | |
| me | that her hair is hanging | long | | And flows and | |
| flows | on down her | breast. | | Please see for | |
| me | that her hair is hanging long | | | For that's the | |
| way | I remember her the | best. | | (I'm wondering...) | |

| if | she remembers me at all | | | The many | |
| times | I've often | laid | | In the | |
| darkness | of my | light | | The | |
| brightness, | of my | day. | | So if your | |
| traveling | to the north country | far | | Where the winds hit | |
| heavy | on the border line | | | Remember | |
| me | to one who lives | there | | For she once | |
| was | a true love of mine | | | | |
