ARE WE MAKING A DIFFERENCE?
We all have a deep need to know that, in some way, we are making a difference. Organizations have this need as well. When we add the responsibility to be good stewards of the time, talents, and finances that people entrust to us, the need is even greater.

As part of our constant effort to evaluate ECHO’s activities and effectiveness, we recently conducted a systematic survey of the nearly 10,000 worldwide members of ECHOcommunity. One of the many helpful results of this survey was greater clarity about our network partners and the impact of the ECHO resources that they use. We asked about their work, their needs, and interests. We also asked for honest feedback about ECHO’s training and resources and how we can serve them more effectively.

EXCITING IMPACT
Through this survey, we found that the 10,000 people who are utilizing ECHO’s training and resources are sharing that knowledge with an average of 63 people each. So 10,000 are directly sharing their ECHO learnings with a minimum of 630,000. But it doesn’t stop there. As these learnings are put into practice, a minimum of 9.3 people benefit. So 630,000 people’s ECHO learnings translate into a total of at least 5,830,000 women, children, and men who benefit.

Thank you for your part in helping ECHO continue to change the lives of these 5.8 million people, and by God’s grace, in the years to come many more.

Based on feedback from those who use and share ECHO’s resources, we are able to confidently share that ECHO’s resources and training have impacted 5.8 million people. Each person represented is a success story, and the impact can last for generations.

1 Statistical Confidence: These results are based on a confidence interval of 2.99%, calculated with a 95% confidence level. This translates to 95% certainty that if every single person that received the survey had sent a response, the margin of error for the results shown would only be +/- 2.99%.
