

Cheryl Shanahan is a self-taught photographer based in Richmond, Virginia.

"I photograph things that enthuse and amuse me. My garden and travels serve as the greatest inspirations, which I translate onto products that I personally love to use, such as note cards, journals, bag tags and bookmarks," says Cheryl, who grew up in Connecticut and New Hampshire.

"Every Lucky Ginger Studio product combines inspiration and an image with a bit of ingenuity. Each flower you see grows in my garden (I am a confirmed hydrangea junkie); water-inspired images come home with me from the lake or beach. In addition to doing all of the photography and post-production, I also design original graphic elements to complement photographic images on certain products."

All Lucky Ginger Studio products are 100% made-in-America.