

Liz Moser grew up in the hills of Winchester, Virginia. After spending some time in Seattle, she returned to attend the school of painting and printmaking at Virginia Commonwealth University. Since graduating in 2000, she has been painting in various mediums and alongside her husband, has become a children's book author and illustrator. Currently, Liz is using mixed media to create small works focused on animals and dinosaurs. She now lives in Richmond, Virginia with her husband and son.
