P'huntsok
Rinpoche

At a young age Tulku Orgyen P'huntsok Rinpoche was recognized by H.H. Dudjom Rinpoche as the reincarnation of Togden Sithar, a great Dzogchen yogi who had been a main disciple of his, and who had been influential in spreading the Dharma, both in Tibet and in Padmasambhava's sacred Hidden Land Pemaköd. In this life, Rinpoche spent his early years in retreat in his own monastery in Pemakod under the blessings of his first root teacher. At the age of 15, he commenced advanced studies at Namdroling Monastery in India, where he was awarded a Khenpo degree and served as a teacher. He is a qualified Vajra Master in the Nyingma lineage.
