

COMPETENCIES

I absolutely love what I do. I'm a concept driven, experienced graphic designer who has a passion for projects that connect images and words to a much larger but simple narrative which gets results.

I've worked with some fantastic organizations that care about and have invested in great design. I've been able to work on a variety of projects, from crucial capital campaigns to creating identities from scratch. I love the process of exploring a new project for the first time, to then giving a new project a pulse that delivers tangible results.

I love working with writers, marketing experts, developers as well as other designers to make something great. I am a firm believer that great design happens on teams.
