Duffy frustrates St. Louis

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — There have been plenty of times over the years when Royals pitcher Danny Duffy would give up a first-inning home run, or fall into a big early hole, and it would cause everything else to slowly unravel.

The left-hander showed Monday night just how much he's matured.

After serving up Matt Holliday's two-run shot in the first, Duffy settled in to go eight innings while striking out eight without a walk, sending Kansas City to a 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the opener of a four-game, two-city series between cross-state rivals.

"I think no walks is more of a win for me than anything, outside of the team winning," said Duffy, who had gone eight innings just once before. "I don't know. Nothing fazes me anymore."

Kendrys Morales went 4 for 4 and drove in two runs, and Eric Hosmer also had a pair of RBIs as the Royals roughed up Adam Wainwright (6-5) to snap a four-game losing streak to the Cardinals.

The Royals scored all their runs with two outs.

"We have a little bit of a reputation for that," manager Ned Yost said, "and it showed up."

Matt Holliday's two-run homer in the first inning was one of the Cardinals' few bright spots in their loss at Kansas City.

time coughing up the lead Holliday had given him, loading the bases for Morales in the first inning. The designated hitter lined a single to right over a shifted infield to tie the game.

Kansas City pulled ahead for good in the second, stringing together five singles and a double while batting through the order. Lorenzo Cain provided the lead with a sharp single up the middle, Hosmer extended it with his bounding double down the right-field line, and Salvador Perez added an RBI single to make it 6-2.

"It's tough. You have to tip your hat, really. They did a real nice job with two strikes and two outs," said Wainwright, who had been 4-0 in six career starts at Kauffman Stadium.

Wainwright retired 10 of his final 11 batters. But the damage had been done, and he was pulled after five innings and 102 pitches.

It was the third time this season the three-time All-Star has allowed at least six runs in a start, though only four were earned.

Meanwhile, Duffy used pinpoint control to breeze through a lineup that scored 11 runs the previous day against Seattle. He retired his final seven batters, with nobody getting past second after the first inning.

"He gave up that two-run homer in the first inning on a pitch he tried to get in," Yost said. "From there, just a great, great effort by Danny. Just a very solid effort."

Arizona pitcher JC Cloney celebrates the last out against Coastal Carolina in Game 1 of the College World Series finals. The 3-0 victory was Cloney's second career complete game.

OMAHA, Neb. — JC Cloney just keeps rolling along at the College World Series, pushing Arizona to the doorstep of its second national championship in five years.

Cloney pitched a four-hitter, Ryan Aguilar drove in two runs and the Wildcats beat Coastal Carolina 3-0 in Game 1 of the College World Series finals Monday night.

Cloney extended his scoreless innings streak at the CWS to 16. The junior left-hander pitched seven innings in the Wildcats' 3-0 win over UC Santa Barbara last Wednesday.

"I'm not really tired right now. The adrenaline is still going," said Cloney, who threw 122 pitches. "I'm still trying to figure out what just happened."

He wasn't the only one. The Chanticleers, playing in the finals in their first CWS appearance, went down in order four times and did not have a runner advance to second base until the ninth inning.

Cloney (8-4) allowed four singles, walked three and struck out six in the second complete game of his career. He was spotted with his location of a fastball in the 80s, a cutter, breaking ball and changeup. He induced 13 groundouts.

"You want to sit on a fastball, and he throws you a cutter. And you sit on the off-speed, and he throws a fastball," said the Chanticleers' Michael Paez.

The Wildcats (49-22) can wrap up their fifth national title and first since 2012 with a win today.

"They all know where we're at and what we're doing," first-year coach Jay Johnson said. "We need to prepare well tonight, the coaching staff and players alike, and get ready to attack the opportunity."

The Wildcats scored in the first when Aguilar singled in Cody Ramer, who led off with a double. Aguilar added another RBI single in the seventh to make it 3-0.

Coastal Carolina (53-18) threatened in the ninth. Anthony Marks singled leading off and Zach Remillard bunted down the third-base line for a base hit on a close play. Connor Owings hit into a double play, and Cloney caught G.K. Young looking at strike three to end the game.

Arizona's defense, which has committed only one error at the CWS, continued to come up big. Second baseman Ramer, playing in short right field as part of a shift in the fourth, sprinted to bare-hand G.K. Young's grounder. His throw to first barely beat Young's headfirst slide. Right fielder Zach Gibbons went with his back to the wall to catch Paez's deep fly to end the eighth inning.

"I thought I got enough of it," Paez said, "but knowing this field, you can't predict what's going to happen."

Coastal Carolina starter Zack Hopeck (3-4) lasted 6 1/2 innings and threw 103 pitches, both career highs. He tipped his cap to the Coastal fans and got a hug from reliever Bobby Morrison as he neared the dugout.

Hopeck was solid, but Cloney was great. Coastal Carolina was shut out for just the second time this season, and first since an 11-0 loss to Wake Forest. The Chanticleers had scored in 58 straight games.

"The kids never quit," Chanticleers coach Gary Gilmore said. "I think they were more frustrated than anything, just trying to figure out how to solve this guy and get some runners on base."
