Student Small Groups

We have taken a new approach to our student small groups this spring semester. Instead of limiting them to only studying scripture, we have mobilized them to be more evangelistically focused as well. We have 6 different small groups that meet on either Monday or Tuesday nights and after a short time of devotion, prep and prayer they set out on the campus to reach others for Christ. Recently one of our small groups packed up 50 brown paper bags with snacks, water and BCMJ info and set out with the intention of using them to engage people on campus in gospel center conversations. They felt like they had good success and had fruitful conversations with people, some resulting in interest in coming to the events that we do. We are excited to see what God does through this new format!

Spring Semester Report

We have had a wonderful semester so far! We have continued to grow both in our Wednesday F.L.O.W. lunches, our Thursday Midweek worship, and our Friday Culture Class. We have averaged 115 on Thursdays with our highest attendance so far being 135! We feed between 80-100 students on Wednesdays and our culture class has grown from 12 to 30 regular attenders on Fridays. The Lord has been good to bless us with new people and we are excited to get them plugged in and disciple them towards being mission minded Christ followers!
