

W. Gill Wylie

W. "Gill" Wylie is President of Johns Hopkins Medical Management Corporation, and is responsible for the development, finance, leasing, operations and program management for all of Johns Hopkins Medicine's Healthcare and Surgery Centers in Maryland.. Under a succession of ascending positions, Gill has held these responsibilities since 1992. Gill's current portfolio of projects includes Johns Hopkins Medicine at Green Spring Station, White Marsh, Columbia, Odenton and various other suburban locations.

The first and largest Health Care and Surgery Center, opened in 1994 is Johns Hopkins at Green Spring Station. which is comprised of 225,000 square feet of medical services, including an primary care, specialty care, an ambulatory surgery center, and a full spectrum of diagnostic imaging services Johns Hopkins Medicine at Green Spring Station serves more than 500,000 patient visits per year from the Baltimore-Washington region.

Gill began his career with Johns Hopkins Medicine in 1985. His early responsibilities included market research, marketing, capital budgeting, strategic and long term planning, program design and implementation, departmental administration of both Psychiatry and Oncology, and then directing the clinical operations for 220 inpatient beds for the Department of Medicine.

Prior to coming to Johns Hopkins, Gill spent three years at Georgetown University, where, as a Program Associate, he assisted the Project Director in monitoring two national grant programs of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the High Risk Young People's Program and the Community Hospital-Physician Practice Program.

Gill was born and raised in New York City as one of five children. He graduated from Hampshire College in Amherst, Massachusetts, in 1978, with a BA in Design; and, then from the University of Pittsburgh in 1984, with a Masters in Public Health. Gill married Mary Anne Styka in 1988. Gill and Mary Anne have two sons: Gill, who is a sophomore in the International Affairs program at George Washington University; and, Henry, who is a junior at Archbishop Curley High School.

Gill completed the Baltimore County Leadership Program in 2000, and among many other professional and community boards, he has served on the Board of Directors of Howard County General Hospital since 2007. In his free time, Gill and his family enjoy community service, travel and sports.