TEQUILA EXPERT

SILVER, or blanco, tequila is a clear spirit that is 100% agave. These tequilas are aged no more than 60 days in stainless steel tanks, if aged at all. The un-aged blancos give the drinker the rawest taste of agave available and have a notable earthy flavor that is distinctly tequila.

REPOSADO, or rested, tequilas are aged in wood casks for a minimum of 2 months, most ranging from 3-9 months. The barrels mellow the flavors of a pure blanco and impart a soft oak flavor to the agave as well as giving the tequila its light straw color.

AÑEJO tequila is "old" tequila. These tequilas are aged, often in white French oak or used bourbon barrels, for a minimum of one year to produce a dark, very robust spirit. Some añejos are aged between 18 months and three years while some of the best can spend up to four years in barrels.
