Behnke LA designs 1,200-foot East Bank riverfront boardwalk that offers spectacular views

Cleveland, Ohio: BEHNKE Landscape Architecture designed the 1,200-foot riverfront boardwalk that offers spectacular views of the Flats and serves as the front door for the new $750 million Flats East Bank project. The boardwalk runs alongside new dining venues fronting the Cuyahoga River. The boardwalk is free and open to the public and easily accessible via Front Street, which was also recently opened to traffic and is the main artery into the project.

The Flats East Bank project brings a mix of residences and businesses to the east bank of the Cuyahoga River. The river walk offers spectacular views of the river, city skyline, the industrial landscape, boats and trains; the remnants of the past and the basis of a new beginning. From the north end of the boardwalk you can see the old United States Coast Guard Station, which sits at the mouth of the Cuyahoga and looks out onto Lake Erie. The southern point looks up the river and back to the city skyline.
