The Perfect Event Dress for Plus Size Apple Shaped Women

Author: Jen Anderson • Discussion: No Comments

We attend so many events. Weddings, anniversary parties, high school reunions – those are all times when we want to look amazing. So we go shopping and what do we find? A bunch of dresses made for women with hourglass shapes (a whopping eight percent of women) and a few designed with pear shaped women in mind. When you finally find an appropriately fancy dress made for your apple shaped body, you're lucky if it's age appropriate and in a color that flatters your skin tone.

All plus size clothes shopping involves a certain amount of hunting, but your search for an event dress is over. Shavonne Dorsey's Bella Dress looks amazing on apple shaped women. The front panel drapes over your front dramatically. Those cap sleeves and knee-length hem show off the lovely arms and legs that apple shaped women tend to be blessed with. (Yes, the dress in the picture hits well above the model's knee. If you're lucky enough to be as tall as a model, Bella will be short, but not too short on you. More petite ladies will find that Bella hits them at the knee.)

The silhouette is so right for apple shaped women that other dresses pale in comparison. If you want to make an entrance, Bella's your friend.

Bella is made from jersey, so she travels really well. Tuck her into a suitcase and she won't be a wrinkly mess when you arrive. This is the dress for an out of town wedding or a special night out on vacation. Bring this dress along just in case you need to look stunning at a moment's notice.

You can wear delicate jewelry with the Bella dress and let the drapes and gathers dominate your look. Or you can add a statement necklace or bracelet – the neckline and short sleeves won't clash with bold jewelry. This dress is simple and classic enough to be versatile – wear it all your special events. Though it makes such an impact that people are sure to remember it – and you. But you'll look so good that you can get away with wearing it to all six weddings you're invited to this year.
