Mitch Reitman one of five added to 2017 SSI Industry Hall of Fame

(Fort Worth, TX) --- Mitch Reitman, president of Reitman Consulting Group Inc., and four other professionals were recently inducted in the 2017 Security Sales & Integration (SSI) Industry Hall of Fame. Deemed as one of the industry's most prestigious honors, the SSI Hall of Fame denotes integrity, ambition, innovation, humility, selflessness, and exceptional career achievement.

According to SSI, its Hall of Fame calls out those in the security/life-safety industry who have made the most significant contributions to the mission of protecting people and property. Mitch Reitman has been actively involved in local, state and national security trade associations, held leadership roles on boards with ESA, AIREF, Texas Burglar and Fire Alarm Association, and has experienced over two decades of setting a professional business standard within the electronic security industry.

In addition to leading Reitman Consulting Group, Mr. Reitman uses his industry expertise to strengthen and help the broader community.

"I am working with state and local security associations to establish scholarship programs for the children of first responders," said Mr. Reitman. "I believe this is a great way for the industry to improve its relationship with the first responders, and it is very rewarding."

Other SSI Industry Hall of Fame Class of 2017 are Dan Budinoff, president of Stamford; Maurice Coleman, late founder and executive leader of ADEMCO; John Lombardi, CEO of Fishkill; and Fredrick Nilsson, vice president of the Americas for Axis Communications.

Serving as president of Reitman Consulting Group Inc., Mitch Reitman and his staff provide financial consulting, valuation, general accounting services, transactional services, tax compliance, and tax representation services to security companies in 23 states, Mexico, Canada and the EEC. He has participated in more than $750 million security industry transactions and prepared over 100 alarm company valuations during his career.
