One World Strategy Group Gives $1,000 to Jack Yates High School Communications Student

One World Invests in Local Talent Through Houston Independent School District

Houston, TX (June 07, 2013) - One World Strategy Group, LLC, (One World) a Houston-based public relations and public affairs firm announced today that it will donate a $1,000 scholarship to Jack Yates High School student, Margarita Hobson. The generous gift is a part of an expanded vision to provide financial support to deserving high school students pursuing a career in communications.

The One World, Brilliant Minds Scholarship will honor one female student pursuing a career in communications who displays strong character, makes good grades, and aspires to be a good human deeply committed to making the world a better place. This year the firm chose to select from Jack Yates High School after working with the School of Communications' students and teachers during the Kid's Get Fit Basketball Camp held during All Star Weekend in February.

One World is honored to announce their support of Margarita Hobson and her future endeavors. Hobson plans to pursue a degree in communications at Texas Southern University this fall.

"We look forward to continuing our work with Yates High School to help build the next generation of leaders," states Jeri Brooks, Founder and Lead Strategist of One World. "As a small business owner, we have an obligation to ensure a strong workforce for the future."

As a local leader in the public relations field, One World currently runs an active internship program and continues to look for opportunities to support students and foster their growth and commitment. To learn more about One World, Brilliant Minds Scholarship and/or internship program, email publicaffairs@oneworldstrong.com. Calls are not accepted regarding this program.
