

ARTS Notes

Casa Grande Burnoff by Dennis Blagg, pencil

Grant from the Dallas Museum of Art to visit Vietnam. There, she hopes to curate an exhibition meditating on the war, which would include her own work and that of a contemporary Vietnamese artist.

■ Painter/printmaker Rosalyn Bodycomb is taking part in a juried group exhibition this summer at the Alternative Museum in New York. The work she has on view, Jealous of Fire: Introse, Extrose, Discord, is a three-part painting of a woman reacting to a glowing fire.

■ Among other recent acquisitions, the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth can count a series of drawings by Dennis Blagg of Fort Worth. Along with Vernon Fisher and Jim Malone, Blagg makes forays to the desert wilderness to clear his psyche and soak up some artistic inspiration. What he comes back with are images such as Casa Grande Burnoff, a 12-by-30-inch pencil drawing.