Information about the process

The first step in the WildFlour Weddings process is to arrange either a tasting or tasting box. Doing this insures you love our cakes as much as we do. We will not prepare a proposal without having you try our cakes first. general pricing can be found at the end of this packet! In choosing flavors remember this is a day both for your guests and you, so pick flavors you like in addition to some basics. There is a small fee for both tasting boxes and tastings, however when you book with us that fee is removed from the total, so it's really a down payment for deliciousness! We suggest three flavors for either the box or meeting, chosen from the WildFlour favorites, or the build your own section. WildFlour offers two styles of buttercream, both American and Italian. American is a powdered sugar frosting, so think denser and sweeter. Italian is a meringue based buttercream that is lighter and less sweet. We suggest Italian for the final outside cover, but you can do anything you'd like!

The second step (at the consultation, or via email) is design. It's helpful to have ideas, even just a small piece of inspiration to get things moving. Without any information about your event or style it's hard to create a piece that is cohesive and special for your day. Photos are great, invitations are wonderful, and pinterest helps! We love trying to create your dream cake, so let's talk design then worry about the price tag later. There are crafty ways to get what you want within your budget!!!

The third step would be the proposal; our proposal to you! It will take about a week after the meeting to design and price your masterpiece. The proposal will include the price of the cake, delivery fees, and any other details needed for you to make your decision; we hope you say yes!!!

The fourth step is making that commitment. Once you decide WildFlour is the cake for you, there is a $50 nonrefundable deposit to hold your date. This ensures that we have reserved the date, and our focus is on you.
