Gitler & _____

Presents Kristian Glynn: And Again Another Crippling Love Story: Part 1

December 13, 2014 – January 3, 2015
Opening Saturday, December 13, 6:00 – 9:00 PM

(December 4, 2014) Gitler & _____ is proud to present And Again Another Crippling Love Story: Part 1, from Australian-born artist Kristian Glynn. Glynn has exhibited regularly with Gitler over the years, dating back to the gallery's days as a pop-up. This is the artist's second solo show with the gallery and the first in a trilogy of exhibitions that will conclude in late 2015 and include a full color catalog of 100+ recent works by the artist. The exhibition will run from December 13 to January 3, 2015.

Ha, That Kid's Got Love Wedged In His Head, 2014; acrylic on paper, 16x24 in.

In Glynn's latest (and extensive) collection of paintings, one discovers a melancholy universe of lovers, travelers and performers, all wayward souls in their own right, framed askew and sublimely vulnerable. Combining the seductive portraiture style of Schiele, the biomorphic terror of Bacon, and his own penchant for poetry and heartache, Glynn has created one-off storyboards that speak volumes. Glynn wears his heart on his sleeve, and allows narrative to inform each work—"In my chest I was a child"; "Show off all your dead flowers"; "Today I beg you away"—as much as form and compositional style. If Kafka had been a romantic, his drawings may have resembled these.

And Again Another Crippling Love Story: Part 1 will open on Saturday evening, December 13, beginning at 6:00 PM. The artist will be present.
