ITEM 4 - ADVISORY BUSINESS

Vestory, LLC (hereafter referred to as "Vestory" or "Advisor") has been in business since October 2009 and is owned by Principals Thomas C Cock and Don McDonald.

Vestory provides fee-only, discretionary portfolio management services to individual investors. These services are based, in part, on the principles and tenets of Modern Portfolio Theory (MPT) as a means for building investment portfolios within a client's long-term investment goals. These services are tailored to the individual's investing objectives, risk tolerance and time horizon.

Vestory constructs model portfolios used as a starting point to determine individual investor needs and which demonstrate the historical risk and return of multiple asset class allocations. Vestory advisory services are designed to educate individual investors on the benefits of long-term investing through appropriate asset class allocations that match the individual's investing risk tolerance. That knowledge is applied in jointly developing an asset allocation that fits the individual's needs. It is then implemented and managed through a global investment portfolio, massively diversified across thousands of securities, with the strategy of providing a market-based return within each client's risk tolerance profile.

Vestory primarily recommends the use of no-load mutual funds like those offered by Dimensional Funds Advisors (DFA) and Vanguard which follow a low-cost, passive investment philosophy with low holdings turnover. DFA-sponsored funds in particular provide Vestory client access to institutional class passively-managed mutual funds not generally available to the investing public.

Vestory also may also provide advice on exchange traded funds (ETF's), corporate debt securities, certificates of deposit, variable investment company products and government bonds. Vestory provides limited advice on individual equity securities (stocks), which present non-diversified risks that are generally difficult to quantify, due to their concentrated exposure to industry and company specific factors.

Vestory may also provide, when desired by the client, specific fixed income services such as direct investment in laddered fixed income securities with date-certain maturities. Such services are only offered when the size of the client's fixed income allocation provides benefit in holding date-certain instruments to better manage interest rate risk, fund planned account withdrawals, lower investment costs and address other relevant factors versus the allocation to fixed income mutual funds.

Vestory may recommend selling positions for reasons that include, but are not limited to, harvesting capital gains or losses, rebalancing for over and underweighted asset classes in the portfolio, change in risk tolerance of client, or any risk deemed unacceptable for the client's risk tolerance.

Broad based asset allocation using passively-managed, low turnover investments is the primary way Vestory attempts to manage clients' investment risk while providing the returns that the investing markets provide.

Vestory also offers an online membership-based subscription service known as "VestoryOne" which includes portfolio evaluation, risk tolerance assessments, regular commentary, and educational information on investing. This service also provides members with access to a select group of managed investment portfolios at Vestory's standard 0.8% annual fee.

By way of an Investment Advisory Agreement, clients provide Vestory written authority to manage their account investments on a discretionary basis. Clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities. Such restrictions shall be included in the Investment Advisory Agreement. Clients may change or amend these restrictions at any time. All changes or amendments must be in writing.

In the course of providing discretionary investment advisory services, Vestory does not provide custodial or other such administrative services. AT NO TIME WILL VESTORY ACCEPT OR MAINTAIN CUSTODY OF CLIENT FUNDS OR SECURITIES. Custodial services are provided by an independent third party custodian.

See Item 15 of this brochure regarding Custody and Item 16 regarding Investment Discretion.

As of March 15, 2012, Vestory had $69,802,000 in assets under management, all on a discretionary basis.

ITEM 5 – FEES AND COMPENSATION

Pursuant to Vestory's Investment Advisory Agreement signed by each client, the client pays Vestory an annual advisory fee, which is collected quarterly in advance, based on the value of assets under management as of close of business on the last business day of the prior calendar quarter. The account balance on which Vestory calculates fee may vary slightly from the account custodial statement due to rounding or timing differences in how accrued interest is reported, for example (see Item 15 of this brochure regarding Custody). Client provides written authorization to withdraw fee directly from client's account. Fee withdrawal occurs at the start of the new calendar quarter and is performed by Vestory's back office administrator (see Item 10 for more BAM contracted services). Vestory sends client an informational invoice showing the amount of the fee, the value of client's asset on which the fee is based, and computation of the fee, according to the following schedule attached as Exhibit A to the signed Investment Advisory Agreement:

Vestory Annual Advisory Fees

Assets Under Management	Annual Fee
Up to $1,000,000	0.80%
$1,000,000 to $2,000,000	0.40%
Over $2,000,000	0.25%

The Vestory fee is non-negotiated. It is separate and distinct from expenses charged by mutual fund companies, which are described in each fund's prospectus and generally include an internal management fee and other fund expenses. A client may be able to invest in these products directly, without the services of Vestory. In that case, the client would not receive the services provided by Vestory which are designed, among other things, to assist the client in determining which products or services are most appropriate to each client's financial condition and investing objectives.

VestoryOne subscribers/members are charged a monthly fee of $29 or an annual fee of $299 for access to the online member/subscriber services. This fee may change from time to time and may be waived for Vestory clients with more than $50,000 in assets under Vestory management. VestoryOne members are also eligible for reduced minimum account size requirements. This service provides members with access to a select group of managed investment portfolios at Vestory's standard 0.8% annual fee.

Clients are also responsible for custodial fees and security transaction fees charged by the independent custodian and executing broker-dealer. These are also separate and distinct from Vestory's advisory fee. Vestory does not receive any portion of these third-party charges. Also, Vestory does not accept any commissions for the sale of securities or other investment products, including asset-based distribution fees from the sale of mutual funds.

The client is encouraged to review third-party fees, mutual fund fees and the fee charged by Vestory to fully understand total fees to be paid.

See Item 12 of this brochure for the factors Vestory considers in selecting or recommending custodians/broker-dealers and determining the reasonableness of their charges.

Investment accounts initiated or terminated during a calendar quarter will be charged a prorated Vestory advisory fee. Upon termination of any account, any prepaid, unearned fees will be promptly refunded to client, and any earned, unpaid fees will be due and payable to Vestory.

ITEM 6 – PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

Vestory does not charge performance-based fees of any kind. In addition, Vestory does not participate in any wrap fee programs.

ITEM 7 – TYPES OF CLIENTS

Vestory provides portfolio management services to individuals, high-net-worth individuals and pension and profit sharing plans.

Vestory's minimum account size is $100,000. This minimum may be waived from time to time by Mr. Cock, based on the needs of the client and the complexity of his or her situation.

ITEM 8 – METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

Vestory services are based on long-term investment strategies incorporating the principles of Modern Portfolio Theory (MPT). Vestory's investment approach is firmly rooted in the belief that markets are "efficient" and that investor returns are determined principally by asset allocation decisions, rather than market timing or stock picking. Vestory recommends diversified portfolios, primarily through the use of passively managed, asset class mutual funds, which in some cases are not available to the investing public. Nonetheless, Vestory portfolio recommendations principally hold broadly-traded open end mutual funds and in some cases conservative date-certain fixed income securities to implement this investing strategy. Vestory may also periodically use Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) to represent an asset class.

Although all investments involve risk, Vestory's investment recommendations seek to limit risk through broad diversification in global equity classes and as appropriate for each client, an allocation to conservative fixed income securities for the fixed income class. Vestory's investment philosophy is designed for investors who desire a buy and hold strategy, with five and even ten or more years of equity-investing time horizon. Vestory's approach also seeks to minimize the frequent trading of securities which typically decreases portfolio performance due to increased brokerage and other transaction and tax costs borne by clients. Investors who do not commit to a MPT philosophy may not achieve desired long-term results.

Clients may wish to hold or retain other types of assets as well, such as actively managed funds and individual stocks, for example. Vestory can offer advice regarding those various assets as part of its service. Advice regarding such assets may not generally involve asset management services, but may help to more generally assist the client with their particular needs. Vestory will emphasize the increased cost associated with trying to time the market through active management or in holding individual stocks where non-diversified risks are difficult to quantify due to concentrated exposure to specific industries and companies.

The investment strategies implemented by Vestory do not utilize securities classified as having significant or unusual risks, beyond that of the general domestic and international equity markets.

Nonetheless, past performance does not guarantee of future returns. Investing in securities involves risk of loss that you, as the client, should be prepared to bear.

Vestory relies on research from commercially available investment services, financial newspapers, periodicals and prospectuses. Vestory also receives research from Dimensional Fund Advisors, Vanguard, and from other consultants, including economists affiliated with Dimensional Fund Advisors (DFA). DFA provides historical market analysis, risk/return analysis and continuing education to Vestory. Vestory in turn, seeks to pass this information on, in an ongoing effort to educate and inform clients and prospects on prudent investing strategies and practices to better understand objective risk/return tradeoffs.

Analysis of a Client's Financial Situation

In developing investment plans for clients, including the recommendation of an appropriate asset allocation, Vestory relies on the client's financial objective, current and estimated future resources, and their stated tolerance for risk. And in some cases, Vestory may use Monte Carlo simulation analysis, a standard statistical approach for dealing with uncertainty.

As with any method used to make projections into the future, there are several risks associated with such projections, which may result in client's not achieving their financial goals. These include, but are not limited to:

- The risk that expected future cash flows do not match those used in the analysis
- The risk that future rates of return fall short of historical levels or projected estimates
- The risk that market volatility exceeds historical levels or projected estimates
- The risk that inflation is greater than historical levels or projected estimates
- That government tax rates are higher than projected, which adversely impacts both taxable account performance and after-tax proceeds from deferred account withdrawals

Risk of Loss

Please read this section carefully.

All investments present the risk of loss of principal – the risk that the value of securities (mutual funds, ETFs and individual bonds), when sold or otherwise disposed of, may be less than the price paid for the securities. Even when the value of the securities when sold is greater than the price paid, there is the risk that the appreciation will be less than inflation. In other words, the purchasing power of the proceeds may be less than the purchasing power of the original investment.

The mutual funds and ETFs utilized by Vestory may include funds invested in domestic and international equities, including real estate investment trusts (REITs), corporate and government fixed income securities and commodities. Equity securities may include large capitalization, medium capitalization and small capitalization stocks. Mutual funds and ETF shares invested in fixed income securities are subject to the same interest rate, inflation and credit risks associated with the underlying bond holdings.

Among the riskiest mutual funds used in Vestory's investment strategies are U.S. and International small capitalization and small capitalization value funds, emerging markets funds, and commodity futures funds. Conservative fixed income securities have lower risk of loss of principal, but most bonds (with the exception of Treasury Inflation Protected Securities or TIPS) present the risk of loss of purchasing power through lower expected return. This risk is greatest for longer-term bonds.

Certain funds utilized by Vestory may contain international securities. Investing outside the United States involves additional risks, such as currency fluctuations, periods of illiquidity and price volatility. These risks may be greater with investments in emerging countries.

More information about the risks of any particular market sector can be reviewed in representative mutual fund prospectuses managing assets within each applicable sector.

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that you, as the client, should be prepared to bear.

It is the very nature of this future loss uncertainty that produces higher rates of return over time. The key words are "over time." Meaning that in the course of pursuing a higher return, one has to be able to handle inevitable short-term volatility surprises. Such volatility translates to the risk of locked-in investment loss if money must be withdrawn in a down market, which is precisely what makes investing time horizon so critically important.

To make investing more comfortable, volatility must be reduced. One way is to accept much lower rates of return. But lower rates of return expose the investor to inflation risk.

A better way to reduce volatility is to invest consistent with the tenants of MPT and passivity. Invest passively in non-correlating assets classes across global markets moving in different directions over time.

Diversification works to eliminates non-compensated specific industry and company risk, leaving only inherent market risk with which to contend.

Therein lies the key to successful investing:

- Consistent and methodical saving to fund investment
- Allow plenty of investing time horizon as a means to ignore inherent market volatility.
- Build a massively diversified portfolio of worldwide holdings constructed to your personal volatility/ risk tolerance.
- Ignore the market's inherent volatility
- Accepting the market's inherent volatility is ultimately what earns you a higher rate of return over time.

ITEM 9 – DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of Vestory or the integrity of Vestory's management. Vestory has never been subject to regulatory, disciplinary or legal action and only one person affiliated with Vestory has been the subject of regulatory or disciplinary action:

ITEM 10 – OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

Mr. Cock, Mr. McDonald and all other Vestory representatives providing advice to clients are not registered as a broker-dealer or as representatives of a broker-dealer. ITEM 11 – CODE OF ETHICS

Vestory has adopted a Code of Ethics that sets forth the basic policies of ethical conduct for all managers, officers, and employees of the adviser. In addition, the Code of Ethics governs personal trading by each employee of Vestory deemed to be an Access Person and is intended to ensure that securities transactions effected by Access Persons of Vestory are conducted in a manner that avoids any actual or potential conflict of interest between such persons and clients of Vestory.

Vestory does not recommend that clients buy or sell any securities in which a related person to Vestory has a material interest.

When Vestory representatives buy or sell securities for themselves that they also recommend to clients, they will comply with Vestory's Code of Ethics and never put themselves in a position to benefit before clients.

When Vestory representatives are buying and selling securities for themselves at or around the same time as clients, and the securities are not open-end mutual funds or broadly-based Exchange Traded Fund indexes, Vestory representatives will trade client positions first, before they trade their own.

Clients and prospective clients may request a copy of Vestory's Code of Ethics by contacting Chief Compliance Officer Tom Cock at 800.386.3004 or Tom@Vestory.com.

ITEM 12 – BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Vestory selects the custodians/broker-dealers it recommends to clients based on trading access to investment securities, reliable trade execution, competitive fees, quality of custodial services, customer service ease of access, and reputation in the industry.

Vestory does not receive research or other products or services (better known as "soft dollar benefits") in exchange for clients paying higher fees and commissions than those charged by other custodians/broker-dealers. Vestory will never charge a premium or commission on transactions, beyond the actual cost imposed by custodian/broker-dealer.

Vestory will not receive a referral fee or client referrals from custodial in exchange for clients using a recommended custodian/broker-dealer.

Additionally, client may pay higher brokerage commissions or received less favorable prices if client chooses to direct brokerage.

Vestory does not aggregate (i.e. block) trade purchases or sales across multiple client accounts because selected custodians/broker-dealers do not provide that capability.

ITEM 13 – REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Accounts are reviewed every six months and rebalanced when warranted. Reviews are conducted by Vestory Investment Advisor Representative and in some cases by Mr. Cock.

Rebalancing or re-optimizing can also be triggered in connection with the following events:

- material market shifts, major economic, or political events

Rebalancing is accomplished by reallocating assets to original allocation target percentages. Re-optimizing involves setting new asset allocation target percentages.

The client will receive written or electronic statements at least quarterly from their account custodian. Vestory also provides quarterly portfolio performance reports.

In addition, the client will receive other supporting reports from Mutual Funds, Trust Companies or Custodians, Insurance Companies, Broker/Dealers and others who are involved with client accounts. See Item 16 of this brochure regarding Custody.

In all cases, this discretion is exercised in a manner consistent with the investment objectives for the particular client account.
