FIRST READING

1 Kings 2.10-12; 3.3-14

[David dies and Solomon takes over as king. Then God allows him to ask for anything he wants, and he requests wisdom to rule over God's people well. God is pleased with his request and grants him wisdom, but also promises him wealth and fame and, if he stays faithful to God, long life.]

A reading from the first book of Kings

David rested with his ancestors and was buried in the City of David. He had reigned for forty years over Israel – seven years in Hebron and thirty-three in Jerusalem. So Solomon sat on the throne of his father David, and his rule was firmly established. Solomon showed his love for the Lord by walking according to the instructions given him by his father David, except that he offered sacrifices and burned incense on the high places. The king went to Gibeon to offer sacrifices, for that was the most important high place, and Solomon offered a thousand burnt offerings on that altar. At Gibeon the Lord appeared to Solomon during the night in a dream, and God said, 'Ask for whatever you want me to give you.' Solomon answered, 'You have shown great kindness to your servant, my father David, because he was faithful to you and righteous and upright in heart. You have continued this great kindness to him and have given him a son to sit on his throne this very day. 'Now, Lord my God, you have made your servant king in place of my father David. But I am only a little child and do not know how to carry out my duties. Your servant is here among the people you have chosen, a great people, too numerous to count or number. So give your servant a discerning heart to govern your people and to distinguish between right and wrong. For who is able to govern this great people of yours?' The Lord was pleased that Solomon had asked for this. So God said to him, 'Since you have asked for this and not for long life or wealth for yourself, nor have asked for the death of your enemies but for discernment in administering justice, I will do what you have asked. I will give you a wise and discerning heart, so that there will never have been anyone like you, nor will there ever be. Moreover, I will give you what you have not asked for – both wealth and honour – so that in your lifetime you will have no equal among kings. And if you walk in obedience to me and keep my decrees and commands as David your father did, I will give you a long life.'

Hear what the Spirit is saying to the Church.

Thanks be to God.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

PSALM 111

[A Psalm in praise of God's works which are glorious, righteous, just, merciful, compassionate and trustworthy. God has redeemed God's people and established an everlasting covenant with them, and wisdom is found in the fear of God and in keeping God's laws. .]

Response: The fear of the Lord, the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

The image shows two staves of musical notation for the response. The first staff is labeled 'Response' and 'v. 10a' and contains the lyrics 'The fear of the Lord, the fear of the'. The second staff contains the lyrics 'Lord is the beginning of wisdom.' The music is written in a treble clef with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a 4/4 time signature. I will give thanks to the Lord with my whole heart, in the company of the faithful and in the congregation.
The works of the Lord are great,
sought out by all who delight in them./R

His work is full of majesty and honour and his righteousness endures for ever.
He appointed a memorial for his marvellous deeds;
the Lord is gracious and full of compassion./R

He gave food to those who feared him;
he is ever mindful of his covenant.
He showed his people the power of his works
in giving them the heritage of the nations./R

The works of his hands are truth and justice;
all his commandments are sure.
They stand fast for ever and ever;
they are done in truth and equity./R

He sent redemption to his people;
he commanded his covenant for ever;
holy and awesome is his name.
The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom;
a good understanding have those who live by it;
his praise endures for ever./R

SECOND READING

Ephesians 5. 11-21

[Paul encourages the Ephesian Christians to live wisely and in the power of God's Spirit that fills them, and to encourage one another through songs, worship and thanksgiving to God.]

A reading from Paul's letter to the Ephesians

Paul writes, 'Have nothing to do with the fruitless deeds of darkness, but rather expose them. It is shameful even to mention what the disobedient do in secret. But everything exposed by the light becomes visible – and everything that is illuminated becomes a light. This is why it is said: 'Wake up, sleeper, rise from the dead, and Christ will shine on you.' Be very careful, then, how you live – not as unwise but as wise, making the most of every opportunity, because the days are evil. Therefore do not be foolish, but understand what the Lord's will is. Do not get drunk on wine, which leads to debauchery. Instead, be filled with the Spirit, speaking to one another with psalms, hymns, and songs from the Spirit. Sing and make music from your heart to the Lord, always giving thanks to God the Father for everything, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Submit to one another out of reverence for Christ.

Hear what the Spirit is saying to the Church.

Thanks be to God.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

and I a- | bide in them.

Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia!

GOSPEL

John 6. 51-58

[Jesus continues proclaiming that he is the Bread of Life, inviting the people to eat his flesh and drink his blood as true food and drink. Those who do this will live, he promises, unlike those who died even after eating the bread in the wilderness.]

A reading from the holy gospel according to John

Glory to you Lord Jesus Christ.

Jesus said to the crowd, 'I am the living bread that came down from heaven. Whoever eats of this bread will live for ever; and the bread that I will give for the life of the world is my flesh.' The Jews then disputed among themselves, saying, 'How can this man give us his flesh to eat?' So Jesus said to them, 'Very truly, I tell you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. Those who eat my flesh and drink my blood have eternal life, and I will raise them up on the last day; for my flesh is true food and my blood is true drink. Those who eat my flesh and drink my blood abide in me, and I in them. Just as the living Father sent me, and I live because of the Father, so whoever eats me will live because of me. This is the bread that came down from heaven, not like that which your ancestors ate, and they died. But the one who eats this bread will live for ever.'

For the Gospel of the Lord.

Praise to you, Lord Jesus Christ.

REFLECTION ON THE READINGS

The key word this week is wisdom. Solomon is praised by God for seeking wisdom above all things. In the Psalm, God's work on behalf of God's people is praised, wisdom is offered to those who fear the Lord, and life to those who follow God's commands. In Paul's letter, the Ephesians are encouraged to live wisely by being filled with God's Spirit as they sing to one another and to God in songs of praise and as they give thanks in all things. Finally, although Jesus doesn't speak of wisdom specifically in the passage from John, there is a link through the metaphor of eating and drinking, in as much as Jesus says, those who seek life find it by sharing in the bread and wine, symbols of his body and blood. This speaks of absolute union with God, taking the very essence of Christ into our beings, and it results in life, the same life that comes from living wisely. Wisdom is found, then, through union with Christ and through living in the power of Christ's Spirit that fills us as we "ingest" the Christ-nature. This resonates strongly with the sacrament, since it is at the altar of our Lord that we are invited into this mystical union with God. This requires two movements in our daily living. Firstly, we need to recapture the discipline of daily spiritual practice – prayer, Scripture reading and Christlike action. Secondly, we need to allow our union with Christ to overflow into lives of gracious, generous, gentle, and humble living. It is when we commit to union with God and to living from God's wisdom, that we are able to bring the life of Christ into our homes, our churches, our neighbourhoods and our communities. This means rejecting many of the values of our society – instant gratification and consumerism, accumulation and rampant individualism, protectionism and the avoidance of diversity. It also means learning to live in the same self-giving way that Jesus did, for when we all learn to sacrifice ourselves for the sake of others, we discover the wisdom and life that we all are able to enjoy together. The quest for wisdom, then, is not just about how we think, but about how we live, and it is only in union with God and in the strength of God's Spirit that we can hope to embrace this life.
