SENTENCE

The Holy Spirit descended on Jesus in bodily form like a dove, and a voice came from heaven, 'You are my Son, the Beloved; with you I am well pleased.' Luke 3.22

INVITATION TO CONFESSION

Christ the Son of God has been revealed as a light to the nations.
Let us bring our darkness to his light, confessing our sins in penitence and faith.

THE COLLECT

Almighty God, you anointed Jesus at his baptism with the Holy Spirit, and revealed him as your beloved Son; grant that we who are baptised into his name may give up our lives to your service, and be found worthy of our calling; through Jesus Christ our Lord who is alive with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God now and for ever. Amen.

FIRST READING

Isaiah 43.1-7

[God's people have no reason to fear, for God has redeemed them, and they will not be harmed when passing through water or flame. God will bring the children of God's people from the four corners of the earth, to bear witness to how God has saved and liberated God's people.]

A reading from the book of the prophet Isaiah

This is what the Lord says – he who created you, Jacob, he who formed you, Israel: 'Do not fear, for I have redeemed you; I have summoned you by name; you are mine. When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; and when you pass through the rivers, they will not sweep over you. When you walk through the fire, you will not be burned; the flames will not set you ablaze. For I am the Lord your God, the Holy One of Israel, your Saviour; I give Egypt for your ransom, Cush and Seba in your stead. Since you are precious and honoured in my sight, and because I love you, I will give people in exchange for you, nations in exchange for your life. Do not be afraid, for I am with you; I will bring your children from the east and gather you from the west. I will say to the north, "Give them up!" and to the south, "Do not hold them back." Bring my sons from afar and my daughters from the ends of the earth – everyone who is called by my name, whom I created for my glory, whom I formed and made.'

Hear what the Spirit is saying to the Church.

Thanks be to God

SECOND READING

Acts 8.14-17

[The apostles, having heard that the Samaritans had accepted God's word, laid hands on the Samaritan believers and prayed for them to receive the Holy Spirit, which they did.]

A reading from the book of Acts

When the apostles in Jerusalem heard that Samaria had accepted the word of God, they sent Peter and John to Samaria. When they arrived, they prayed for the new believers there that they might receive the Holy Spirit, because the Holy Spirit had not yet come on any of them; they had simply been baptised in the name of the Lord Jesus. Then Peter and John placed their hands on them, and they received the Holy Spirit.

Hear what the Spirit is saying to the Church.

Thanks be to God.

GOSPEL

Luke 3.15-22

[The people wonder whether John the Baptist is the Christ, but he denies it and proclaims that another is coming who is more powerful, and will baptise with the Holy Spirit and with fire. Then Jesus is baptised by John along with the other people, and the Spirit descends on him and he hears God's voice affirming him.]

A reading from the holy gospel according to Luke

Glory to you Lord Jesus Christ.

As the people were filled with expectation, and all were questioning in their hearts concerning John, whether he might be the Messiah, John answered all of them by saying, 'I baptize you with water; but one who is more powerful than I is coming; I am not worthy to untie the thong of his sandals. He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire. His winnowing-fork is in his hand, to clear his threshing-floor and to gather the wheat into his granary; but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire.' So, with many other exhortations, he proclaimed the good news to the people. But Herod the ruler, who had been rebuked by him because of Herodias, his brother's wife, and because of all the evil things that Herod had done, added to them all by shutting up John in prison. Now when all the people were baptized, and when Jesus also had been baptized and was praying, the heaven was opened, and the Holy Spirit descended upon him in bodily form like a dove. And a voice came from heaven, 'You are my Son, the Beloved; with you I am well pleased.'

For the Gospel of the Lord.

Praise to you, Lord Jesus Christ.

PRAYER OF THE FAITHFUL

Gracious and loving God - you call to us across deep waters and dark places. Yours is the light, which guides us, and the voice we follow. We pray you open up your heavens and send your Spirit upon us, as you did for your son at his baptism by John. Reflections on the readings

The first Sunday after the Feast of the Epiphany, is always the baptism of Jesus. However, this year, the focus is less on Jesus, and more on how God's people are invited to participate in the baptism and to receive God's Spirit. In the Isaiah prophecy, God's people are promised liberation and salvation, even though they pass through water and fire, and they are called to witness to God's saving acts. In the Psalm, God's voice is celebrated, which shakes the earth, but which also – by implication in the Psalm – strengthens and brings peace to God's people, even as God's voice affirmed Jesus. In the reading from Acts, the Samaritan believers, who have been baptised in the name of Christ, now receive their own “baptism in the Holy Spirit and fire” when the apostles lay hands on them. Finally, in the Gospel, Luke reminds his readers of John's prediction that Jesus is the one who will baptise them in the Holy Spirit, and, at his baptism, the voice of God affirms and strengthens him. What this means is that our meditation on Jesus' baptism this week is not just an exercise in holy remembering. It is not just about Jesus. Rather, it is an acknowledgment that God is still at work in the world, and still invites us to participate in God's saving and liberating work. But, to do this, we, like Jesus, will need to be strengthened and empowered. We will need to be baptised in the Holy Spirit, to equip us again and again for the enterprise we are called to undertake as the people of God. The world is facing huge, inter-related crises. Symptomatic or one-dimensional approaches have been shown and recognised to be ineffectual and the need for inter-disciplinary, systemic, and collaborative approaches is clear. Increasingly, though, people of all disciplines are recognising that there is also a need for Divine partnership – an active drawing on God's creative, inspiring, and empowering Spirit – to address the challenges we face. The celebration of the Baptism of Jesus is an ideal opportunity to open ourselves to the Spirit that Jesus offers, and to reaffirm our commitment to God's call to be participants in God's saving work. Then the promise of God's Spirit to empower us, and the gift of God's living word to challenge, guide and strengthen us, assures that we have all the resources we need to participate in God's work. In addition, the message of the Scriptures, which reminds us that even the outcast Samaritans were able to receive God's Spirit, is a call to embrace all people and to invite all people to share in God's saving work, and to be empowered by God's Spirit.
