

THE DAILY

‘The Daily’: What the Health Bill Means for Maine

The Daily

By MICHAEL BARBARO JUNE 28, 2017

Listen and subscribe to our podcast from your mobile device: On iPhone or iPad | On Android via RadioPublic | Via Stitcher

The Senate vote on the health care bill is off — for now. Why a small group of senators blocked the Republicans’ biggest legislation since President Trump took office.

On today’s episode:

- We focus on Maine, where Senator Susan Collins has been a vocal opponent of the health care bill. We talk with Jennifer Steinhauer about the health coverage issues that worry people in the state, and with Lee Umphrey, chief executive of the Harrington Family Health Center.