You know why you're here.

You want to know what to write in a first message that will get her attention, get her to reply, and make her say “Yes!” when you ask her out.

How do you get the green light from a girl?

Spend a little effort up front to write a great first message. You will earn her respect. Hone your technique. You will keep her interested and make her want to meet you.

Here's how.

→ Plan Your Route

At every turn, she has the power to pay attention to you...or one of the 10 other guys who messaged her that hour. The best way to earn her attention is to earn her respect.

We're online dating because we want to meet someone great. Someone who's fun to be with, kind, smart, funny, and considerate. Someone we'll want to be for months, years, or a lifetime.

We're not looking for someone we'll want to replace after a couple hours. Someone lazy, rude, creepy, or mean.

Your first message must prove that you're a guy with best qualities, not the worst.

A good first message involves only 3 things, and it can be written quickly and easily. You just need to know what messages women want to get.

Women want you to do 3 things:

- 1) Read our profile (not just look at our pictures)
- 2) Pick something you share in common or find interesting
- 3) Start a conversation about it
