- Fairplay is mandatory. Unfair racing will result in immediate disqualification.
- Instructions given by the event organizers, judges, announcers and race officials have to be followed by any means.
- The loser of each round will be determined by the subjective decision of a judging panel. The decisions of the judging panel will immediately be communicated by the announcer and the race officials. The judging panel consists of 3 judges who will thereby always find a majority decision.

- Overtaking-maneuvers are always permitted and possible. It is illegal to purposely cut your contenders. The rider who is being passed has to remain within his anticipated path.
- Rad Racers who fail to compete within the formulated set of rules will be disqualified.
- In case of a slight accident the race will continue – if possible. The involved rider has the option to resume the race or immediately leave the racetrack without interference of the ongoing race.
- In case of a serious accident the race will be interrupted by the race officials and the announcer. The remaining riders have to proceed slowly to the start-/finishline where the race will be restarted with the following lap. The rider involved in the accident will be withdrawn from the race.
- There will be electronic time measurement in order to determine the 8 fastest losers who qualify for a wildcard.
- The first rider to bow out of competition in each race of the qualifying round is excluded from the chance to gain a wildcard spot for the following round.
- Every rad racer has to show up 10 minutes prior to his race in the paddock. Delay may result in a withdrawal from the race. A disqualified rider can not be reintegrated to competition at a later state of the race. The exchange of starting-spots is not possible.
- The organizer strongly recommends the use of drop bars even though other variations are tolerated.
