Teaching Music in the Cloud

Presented by Jim Frankel

Saturday, January 7th, 2017 9am-1pm Continental Breakfast 8:30am

What is cloud computing? What resources are in the Cloud for music educators, and how can you use them in your music classroom? Come experience the latest Cloud-based tools to help you store, share, and assess student content as well as the latest software resources that have reinvented the way we access tools for teaching music.

Dr. James Frankel
Head of Digital Education for the Music Sales Group, and Director of MusicFirst

Dr. James Frankel is the Head of Digital Education for the Music Sales Group, and Director of MusicFirst. Previously, he was the Managing Director of SoundTree, the Educational Division of Korg USA, and before that he was the instrumental and general music teacher at the Franklin Avenue Middle School in Franklin Lakes, NJ for 11 of his nearly 15 years in the New Jersey Public Schools. Dr. Frankel earned a Bachelor of Music degree from Montclair State University in 1993, where he studied the tuba as well as composition. In 1996, Dr. Frankel completed his Masters Degree in Music Education at Teachers College, Columbia University where he completed his doctoral studies in 2002. Dr. Frankel is an Adjunct Faculty member at Teachers College, Columbia University where he teaches courses on music technology. Dr. Frankel is a widely published author in various state, national and international journals of music education. He is the author of: Teaching Classroom Music in the Keyboard Lab published by SoundTree and The Teachers Guide to Music, Media & Copyright Law published by Hal Leonard. He is also co-author of YouTube in Music Education published by Hal Leonard, contributing author for Critical Issues in Music Education published by Oxford University Press and co-author of Making Music with GarageBand & Mixcraft published by Cengage. In addition to his writing, Dr. Frankel is a highly sought-after clinician in the local, national and international music education communities.
