Human trafficking happens every day in our country. In 2009 Truckers Against Trafficking was created to help raise awareness and train people to spot trafficking.

TAT has been involved in 360 investigations involving 650 trafficking victims. The TAT Freedom Drivers Project was in Bismarck today at the Bismarck Police department to help raise even more awareness. The truck has information inside on what to look for and stories of victims that have been rescued.

Senator Heidi Heitkamp has been a huge advocate of the project.

"We want to send out the alarm, you know people are watching, you may think you are invisible and you may think you have gotten away with it for a long time, but now you not only have to worry about law enforcement, but you also have to worry about all those trucks parked in the parking lot getting their rest and when they look around are they going to be calling," said Sen. Heidi Heitkamp, D-N.D. "And so it's a great, great effort."
